Hoover Names Arthur M. Hyde, Agriculture Head

FORMER GOVERNOR OF KANSAS WINS
POST IN CABINET

Is Surprise to Everybody, Including Hyde, Who Supported Lowden Against Mr. Hoover.

NEW SECRETARY IS REAL FARMER

Washington Is Decker
Out in Gay Attire for Inauguration, Most Lavish in Years.

Kansas City, Mo., March 1.—(AP)—
The Kansas City Star will say in a copyrighted story in its morning edition tomorrow that Arthur M. Hyde, former governor of Missouri, will be secretary of agriculture in the Hoover cabinet.

Mr. Hyde has accepted the appointment tendered him by the president-elect and is en route to Washington to attend the inaugural ceremonies, the newspaper will say. He is due to reach the capital tomorrow morning.

Mr. Hoover verified the appointment tonight.

Announcement of the Missouriian's appointment apparently settled the guessing contest as to the identity of one of the two "mystery men" chosen by Mr. Hoover to complete his cabinet.

A "surprise" was promised the country in the filling of the posts of secretary of agriculture and secretary of commerce when it became known that President-elect Hoover had rounded out his official family.
No inkling had been given prior to tonight that Mr. Hyde was under consideration.

The disposition of one other cabinet post remains to be announced—that of secretary of commerce.

In selecting the Missouriian for the agriculture post, Mr. Hoover was understood to have been greatly impressed by his record as an administrator, both while governor of his native state and as a business man.
The appointment gives recognition to that element of the republican party which supported former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, and his

PROHIBITION INCREASE GIVEN APPROVAL

Quarter Million Added to Appropriation Voted by House for Dry Inquiry as Deficiency Bill Passes.

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Differences between the senate and house over an increase in the prohibition appropriation were settled finally today by their conferees agreeing on a $2,957,000 addition in funds for prohibition enforcement.

The senate had asked $24,000,000 additional and the house, after President Coolidge had recommended it, approved $2,727,000.

The agreement largely dissipated fears that the two deficiency appropriation measures might fail of enactment. The two bills carry more than $200,000,000 for various projects throughout the country and leaders tonight believed the way clear for their final adoption.

Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, who sponsored the $24,000,000 item voted by the senate accepted the compromise as a "distinct vindication of his position."

The decision was made by inferior court here after a preliminary hearing earlier in the week. The court held that while evidence was circumstantial, careful analysis gave "rise to reasonable cause to suspect that a crime was committed, and that the defendant is implicated in the commission thereof."

Attorneys will seek admission to the trial.

First airplane photographs of the devastating effect of the swollen waters of the Ocmulgee near Macon were snapped Friday afternoon by Kenneth Rogers, staff photographer of The Constitution, through the courtesy of Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., and Johnny Kytte, one of the company's intrepid pilots. The trip through the air extended as far as 25 miles south of Macon and revealed a countryside transformed into an immense lake, broken here and there by hillocks, some of them populated by terrified herds of cattle, and completely isolated farm-houses. The aerial voyagers reported that in some places the Ocmulgee had spread its banks to a width of ten miles of solid water. The top scene is a general view of the landscape, normally a region of rich river-bottom farm lands, now a huge area of muddy water. The winding ribbon shown at the top of the picture below is the Ocmulgee river-bed and the rest is solid water, broken only by the emergence of tall trees. A road to the right of the river is completely out of sight.

AMERICUS WIDOW
HELD FOR MURDER

Americus, Ga., March 1.—(AP)—Mrs.
Oscar Grantham, 27, attractive widow and mother of two small children, was held today on a charge of murder depending on the action of the Sumter county grand jury, which will hear evidence surrounding her husband's death.

The decision was made by inferior court here after a preliminary hearing earlier in the week. The court held that while evidence was circumstantial, careful analysis gave "rise to reasonable cause to suspect that a crime was committed, and that the defendant is implicated in the commission thereof."

Attorneys will seek admission to the trial.

Macon Citizens Celebrate Arrival of First Mail Plane

BY EUGENE HINTON.
Macon, hub of middle Georgia and a city of progress and advancement along many lines, took another step in its forward march Friday afternoon, when it assumed a definite and important place on the aviation map of the country by inaugurating, with impressive ceremonies, arrival of its first air mail plane. In becoming an integral part of the nation's network of air mail routes, Macon has the distinction of being the only stop along the route operated by Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., between Atlanta and Jacksonville.

All official Macon and a large portion of its general public swarmed over Miller field Friday afternoon to greet the mail plane and to witness the stunts and maneuvers which pre-

ROAD BONDS WIN
CAROLINA HOUSE

Columbia, S. C., March 1.—(AP)—
The state house of representatives tonight passed on second reading a house bill to increase the state gasoline tax from five to six cents a gallon. The vote was 42 to 28.

Opponents joined supporters of the $75,000,000 road bond bill passed today to urge the gas tax increase which would give the extra cent to county and local road maintenance. County roads at present get two cents of the five-cent tax but the bond bill would take the entire five cents to pay the state highway bonds.

2 AUTO VICTIMS ARE NEAR DEATH

Hubert C. Blackstone and John W. Richardson Are Found Unconscious in Wreck of Their Auto.

Two young white men who early Friday night were found unconscious in the wreck of an automobile at Howell Mill and Collier roads early this morning were near death at Grady hospital suffering fractures of the skull and possible internal injuries.
They were identified several hours after the accident as Hubert C. Blackstone, of Powers Ferry road, and John W. Richardson, of 989 Manigault street.

They were discovered shortly before 6 o'clock by E. H. Lyon, of 2114 Howell Mill road, who put them in his automobile and rushed them to the hospital. Shortly before midnight they partially recovered consciousness, but not sufficiently to tell their names or give any details of the wreck. Blackstone was identified by his mother, Mrs. G. M. Blackstone, while fellow employees of the men at the Atlanta Joint Terminal company identified Richardson.

An examination of the scene of the wreck indicated that the automobile in which they were riding first struck a mail box and swerving first im-

Tom Carr, Hero
Of Gump Comic, Receives Pardon

Jackson, Miss., March 1.—(AP)—
A pardon for "Tom Carr," falsely imprisoned hero of a newspaper comic strip, today was on its way to Sidney Smith, Chicago cartoonist, bearing the signature of Governor Theodore G. Bilbo.

The "executive clemency" was granted following the receipt yesterday of a petition from 61 citizens of Itho, Miss., whose sense of fair play was offended by the triumphs of the villainous "Henry J.
Austinn" over the innocent "Carr," and his sweetheart, "Mary Gold."

Governor Bilbo signed the document, which was embossed with the Mississippi seal and attested by the secretary of state, with the stipulation that "Tom devote his energy to recouping his fortunes with 'Miss Gold' and settling his score with that despicable scoundrel, Austinn."

Milledgeville Is Emerg-

BY L. A. FARRELL,
Staff Correspondent.

Cordele, Ga., March 1.—(Special.)
Its fury somewhat relaxed, but continuing to leave untold property damage in its wake, Georgia's worst flood in years moved further southward tonight as the Ocmulgee, Chattahoochee and Flint rivers still were far out of their banks, seriously damaging Mon-tezuma, Bainbridge, Hawkinsville, Lumber City, Newton and other south Georgia towns and threatening to unleash tomorrow on Albany and revisit Bainbridge and Newton.

The death toll mounted to nine today, when Stoney Fussell, 32, was drowned at Fitzgerald while fishing in the backwaters from the Ocmulgee.
Six deaths were reported Thursday at Lincolnton and one each at Augusta and Butler.

So far as could be learned tonight, the death of Fussell was the only additional casualty, thousands of other south and central Georgia residents having heeded repeated warnings of the weather bureau and having evacuated the threatened centers before the flood waters wrought their havoc.

Valdosta and Cordele suffered, too, today. Two small creeks, one to the east and a second to the west of the former city, leaving their banks and partly inundating the outlying sections. Though Cordele is about 12 miles from the Flint, this city, too, is showing evidence of being in the flooded area. Work on the new Cor-

FOUND IN TREE

Augusta, Ga., March 1.—(AP)— Leonard DeLoach, 26, of Augusta, who with Ernest Seigler, 26, was believed drowned in the swollen Savannah river, was found late today by a searching party clinging to a tree in the rushing torrent.

DeLoach, who was almost frozen, said he had clung to the tree for 24 hours, after seeing his companion, Seigler, disappear beneath the tawny flood waters into which they were plunged when their boat capsized in swift water.

Seigler and DeLoach both swam to a tree top, the rescued man said, but

Recipes for Salmon Dishes Will Assist Georgia Housewives

The following recipes will prove of interest to housewives:
Salmon and Corn Souffle.
Mix 1 can salmon, flaked, with 2 cups thick white sauce. Add lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce and season. Fold in 2 stiffly-beaten egg whites, and pour half of the mixture into a buttered baking dish. Pour in 1 cup canned corn, scouted slightly, then the rest of the mixture. Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes. Serve with a pickle relish.

Salmon Finger Rolls.
Mix together with knife soft dough made from 2 cups flour sifted well, 3 tablespoons lard, 3 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Use enough ice water or ice cold milk to soften. Roll out thin and cut in strips about 5 inches long and 2 1/2 inches wide. Fill with the following, and pinch the ends together, then bake until crust is done:
Filling: 1 can salmon, seasoning, 1 large grated onion, 1 sweet pepper cut fine, 1 teaspoon parsley, 1-2 cup white sauce.
Salmon Puffs.
Flake 1 can of salmon, mix with 2-3 cup of bread crumbs wet in milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 2 eggs, the whites beaten separately and folded in last. Bake in buttered gem pan 20 minutes. Serve with white sauce.

Seven Candidates Qualified For County Commission Race; Books Close This Afternoon

Inman, Pennington, Longino, Cochran, Whitaker, Owenby and Bettis Officially in Race.

Seven aspirants Friday night were qualified to make the race for the commission's post left vacant by the death of the late Captain George M. Hope, and at the same time W. S.

Richardson, official registrar of the county, announced that books would be kept open until 5 o'clock this afternoon in order to give all those who wish to make the race, to be decided in an election slated for March 20, an opportunity to qualify.

Those officially entitled to make the race were Ed Inman, Robert F. Pennington, George Longino, Jr., Dr. A. H. Cochran, Colis B. Whitaker, Vesta M. Owenby and Byron Bettis.

All candidates must qualify under the law by March 5.

Byron Bettis made the following announcement of his candidacy: "I am mindful of the high trust I am asking the people to place in me. Born and raised in Fulton county, and educated in schools here, I think I appreciate the county's interests as well as any man in the county. I am not a rich man and I have never held public office. I do not belong to any clique or faction, nor have I any axe to grind. I have no enemies to spank nor any friends I want to favor, but I want to help in the wonderful development of the county where I have lived and done business all my life, and leave to my children the knowledge that a life consecrated to good is rewarded by the good people of this county."

Frank Hooper, Jr., former member of the Georgia legislature, had under advisement requests from a large number of his friends that he make the race for the position. He stated he had not decided, but would make an announcement of his intentions within the next few days.

Others who have been mentioned as probable candidates are Robert E. Lee, Jr., Atlanta attorney; C. D. Knight, president of the Atlanta Improvement association, and Arthur Brooke, former president of the Southeastern Fair association.

It was testified that Moore was arrested Thursday with two grains of morphine in his possession. He afterwards was given marked money and sent to Mrs. Brown's home by the federal agents, it was said. After purchasing some of the drug from her he returned it to the officers who then arrested the woman and found the marked money in her possession. It was testified "She denied her guilt at the hearing."

VICTIM OF POISON REGRETS SUICIDE PLAN IS FAILURE

After hours of refusal to divulge her name a pretty young woman who was brought to Grady hospital late Thursday suffering from a poison dose, Friday broke her silence to give her name to reporters as Estelle Moore, of Birmingham, Ala.

Birmingham authorities late Friday were attempting to establish the woman's identity but had been unable to locate her residence.

The poison victim was brought to the hospital late Thursday afternoon after she had collapsed on the floor in the women's rest room at the Terminal station. It was thought by attendants that she had fainted until a small bottle was found near where she fell. Her condition was not regarded as critical Friday night and doctors said that when told this she indicated her regret she had not succeeded in her suicide effort.

$25,000 DAMAGES ASKED BY MOTHER OF SLAIN YOUTH

Suit for $25,000 damages for the death of her son, Paul Hulme, was filed Friday in city court of Atlanta by Mrs. L. M. Hulme, who names Robert B. Pettit, and his stepfather, R. W. Stephenson, as defendants.

Mrs. Hulme alleges that Pettit shot and killed her son, Paul, on November 3, and that Pettit pleaded guilty in Fulton superior court and was sentenced to serve one to two years. Federal Reserve Board Says Credit Structure Of Nation Rests on Bank

Board Not Limited to Funds From Member Banks; Loans Rest on Reserve Credit.

Washington, March 1.—(P)—Federal reserve credit was held today in the annual report of the federal reserve board to constitute the basis upon which the entire credit structure of the nation rests.

The report declared the board's responsibilities were not limited to the control of funds obtained directly from member banks, holding that in the final analysis every class of loan or investment rested upon reserve bank credit.

Contending that too rapid expansion of bank credit in any one field might result in serious financial disorganization, the report said the board felt it was its duty to use its influence against "undue credit expansion" in any direction.

Nine recommendations for legislation to broaden the powers of the board were embodied in the report, as was a request that the Clayton anti-trust act be amended so as to exempt the joint stock and land banks from the prohibition against interlocking directorates.

Legislation in line with the latter request is pending in congress.

Reiterates Warning.
The board reiterated its warning against use of federal reserve credit for speculation and said the reserve system was obligated to employ its lending power in the broadest sense to the best interests of the nation's business.

"The effect may be," the report said, "to cause the borrower to seek accommodation at another bank, member or non-member, that is not indebted to the reserve bank. For the purpose of meeting the demand thus transferred without borrowing at the reserve bank, the bank to which the borrower applies may borrow from a member bank, which in turn may borrow from the reserve bank. As a result of this series of transactions there would be no reduction in security loans or in borrowings at the reserve bank."

In an analysis of the $1,600,000,000 increase in brokers' loans by New York federal reserve member banks during 1928, the report pointed out that because $1,230,000,000 of the amount was loaned by non-banking lenders it had not increased the demand for reserve bank credit from that source.

BANK STOCK SOARS
$1,000 SHARE; NEW MERGER RUMORED

New York, March 1.—(P)—Stock of the First National Bank, of which George F. Baker, known as dean of American bankers, is chairman, soared $1,000 a share on the "over-the-counter market" today, reaching a price of $7,500. Its advance in the past three days totals $1,950 a share, increasing the market value of the entire capital stock, of which Mr. Baker is said to hold about 20 per cent, by $195,000,000.

The stock of this bank was started on its upward flight by announcement Monday of the Guaranty Trust, Bank of Commerce $2,000,000,000 merger, and its rise has been accompanied by rumors that the First National and possibly the Bankers Trust company would be included in the consolidation, creating a new world giant of finance.

The Guaranty, Bank of Commerce and Bankers Trust have become known in Wall street as Morgan banks.

Seventeen men were convicted on auto theft charges and were given an aggregate sentence of 70 years.

KELLOGG PEACE PACT RATIFIED BY FRENCH

Aristide Briand Carries French Parliament by Storm For Vote.

Paris, March 1.—(P)—Aristide Briand, co-worker with Secretary Frank B. Kellogg on the pact for renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy, today carried the French parliament by storm and obtained ratification of the treaty by a vote of 570 to 12.

All parties voted solidly in favor of the pact except the communists. Leaders of other groups remarked that it was strange that a party whose motto was "war on all wars" should have cast ballots against the international disarmament.

The career of M. Briand has been dotted with masterpieces of eloquence but the foreign minister has seldom risen to such heights of oratory as he attained today. He spoke like an inspired apostle of peace and even his most bitter political enemies responded with enthusiastic cheering as he said:

"War is a crime. Let us outlaw it."

Members of the national legislature have hailed him as the initiator of the movement which resulted in the signing of a treaty by 15 original signatories to the Kellogg pact.

When I had the honor of addressing to the American people a message formulating the substance of the pact, it was received with a wave of enthusiasm. I feel now that a declaration of war by any country would meet in the United States a similar strong reaction of popular feeling, but in the opposite direction."

SECOND CHAMBER APPROVES PACT.

Amsterdam, March 1.—(United News).—The second chamber approved the Kellogg anti-war pact today with only two dissenting votes.

RATIFICATION AT COPENHAGEN.

Copenhagen, March 1.—(United News).—Parliament ratified the Kellogg treaty for renunciation of war today.

BULK OF ESTATE OF MRS. DOUGLAS

The bulk of the estate of Mrs. Mary Fontaine Douglas, who died several days ago, is left to her daughter, Mrs. Nathalie Stokes Hicks, in her will, which was filed Friday with the Fulton county ordinary for probate. No estimate of the value of the estate was given. A sum of $100,000 was bequeathed to her husband, Edgar Lee Douglas.

Among contingencies provided for in the will is a bequest of 50 per cent of the estate to a home for the care of young children whose parents are unable to furnish a home, this provision to go into effect in the event Mrs. Hicks dies without living children or live issue of her children, and in the event Mrs. Douglas' step-mother, Mrs. Nathalia Hamilton Fontaine, and Mr. Douglas die before Mrs. Hicks.

A codicil to the will provides that Mr. Douglas shall receive the funds in her Atlanta address National bank checking account, while the savings department funds of Mrs. Douglas in that bank are to be devoted to taxes and insurance on property. The Atlanta Trust company was named as executor.

EARLY SOLUTION SEEN ON SCHOOL FINANCES

Subcommittee Expected To Make Definite Recommendation
Early Next Week.

Formation of a definite recommendation of the special subcommittee relative to a plan to relieve the financial pressure on the city government in operation and maintenance of the Atlanta public school system is expected to be completed at a meeting to be held Tuesday or Wednesday, it was announced Friday night.

The subcommittee is acting for a composite committee composed of members of the finance committee of city council, the board of education and a special citizens' advisory committee named by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

Although its report has not been completed and no announcement has been made officially as to what will be incorporated in the scheme to be offered, it is expected that action will be designed to make the school system "fiscally and physically independent."

Included in the recommendation is expected to be a plan to change the number of board members from 13 at the present time to a smaller number. This plan has received the approbation of George W. Powell, president of the board; Roy D. Warren, chairman of the finance committee, and others, and undoubtedly will be considered by the subcommittee.

Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, of the eleventh ward and chairman of the composite committee, declared Friday that he would postpone a meeting of the composite committee which had been slated for Tuesday afternoon in order to permit members of the subcommittee to formulate a definite recommendation.

The tentative plan as agreed on by members of the subcommittee tacitly approve an increase of 33 per cent in the city taxes—thus raising the rate from $1.50 a $100 to $2. This fund would receive $1 and all other departments of the municipal government the other $1 for operation and maintenance. A similar bond also will be considered and the manner of election will be up at the same time. Several members of the committee favored election of board members from the city at large at a session held Tuesday afternoon.

DR. CORY TO GIVE FOUR ADDRESSES
HERE NEXT WEEK

Dr. A. E. Cory, of Kinston, N. C., former missionary to China, and chairman of the First Christian church, it was announced Friday by the Rev. C. R. Stauffer, pastor.

Dr. Cory will speak at 8:30 o'clock each night, Monday to Thursday, inclusive, and each night will have a different message for his listeners. Sunday night services will be conducted by the women of the church with Mrs. Nathan T. Moore in charge. The Women's council will meet at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Ben Thompson, of the Baptist church at Madison, as the principal speaker.

Bids will be opened April 10, it was announced. The property is composed of two tracts, one consisting of 406 acres and the second approximately 5. FITZGERALD MAN SHOOTS BROTHER BY MISTAKE

Fitzgerald, Ga., March 1.—(P)—Lewis Luke, youngest son of D. Z. Luke, prominent Irwin county farmer, was mistaken for a burglar and shot by his brother, Welton Luke, at the family home last night. Bullets entered his side after passing through a pine door.

SEVERE COLD RENEWED IN CENTRAL EUROPE

London, March 1.—(P)—Renewed cold in Austria, Hungary and the Balkans intensified suffering there today. More moderate weather prevailed in Greece and parts of Turkey.

There were new stories of the hardship and misery wrought by the storm. One came from Travnik, Bosnia, where two tiny gontherlers, brother and sister, were found frozen to death, clasped in each other's arms. Surrounding them were 80 dead goats they had tried to lead out of the storm. Some of the drifts near them were 21 feet deep.

Severe conditions continued in northern Europe with the Baltic sea and its entrances still frozen tight. Plane service, which has greatly helped the stranded ice-bound ships, was extended to the northern Cattegat and Skagerrack. Apart from carrying supplies to ships' crews the planes are closely watching ice movements and radiating to shipping signs of channel openings.

Intense cold was still reported from Poland, where it has caused stagnation. Textile mills at Lodz were shut down, unable to operate. Copenhagen had a scarcity of water for an hour yesterday when its most important main cracked from the frost.

Bright weather with low temperatures continued in England. There was heavy frost last night.

There was a further increase in deaths from influenza in England during the week, the total in London and the larger cities and towns being 1,764 compared with 1,243 the week before. The total since January 1 is 5,347 against 585 for the same period in 1928.

EMORY DEBATERS MEET TENNESSEE SATURDAY NIGHT

Emory university debaters will meet the University of Tennessee team in the college auditorium here at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the seventh varsity debate of the season. Five of the other six decisions have been unanimous in Emory's favor.

Emory will be represented by two new members of the squad, Van Woodward, formerly of Henderson-Brown college, Arkansas, and Leon Foster, of Savannah, of last seasons freshman squad. J. L. Zwingler and J. A. Wood will be the Tennessee debaters. The subject for the debate is, "Resolved, That the System of Trial by Jury Should Be Abolished in the United States." The Emory team will support the negative.

ATLANTA TO WELCOME INAUGURAL PARTIES

California and Texas Groups Will Be Entertained Here Today.

Georgia's capital city today will welcome two delegations which will arrive here en route to the inaugural ceremonies to be held March 4 at Washington.

The occasion will give Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, other city officials and Georgia Tech an opportunity to repay some of the courtesies extended the Georgians when they visited California the first part of the year to attend the Rose Bowl game in which Tech triumphed over the Golden Bears. Every effort will be made to extend the city's most hospitable reception to the California and Texas delegations when they return for a short visit here.

The California delegation will arrive at the Terminal station at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, and the Texas group will arrive at 8 o'clock this morning.

Mayor Ragsdale, Philip Alston, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, and other prominent Atlantans will proceed to College Park to welcome the California group and will ride with this party to the station.

There the Atlanta police band, Tech students and others will greet the entire entourage.

City officials will send a beautiful floral offering labeled "Greetings Atlanta to California." Nunnally and Norris candy firms will distribute candy to the visitors and their thrills will be shared by Coca-Cola and Nu-Grape, all contributed by the respective manufacturing companies here.

Included in the California delegation will be about 150 persons while the Texas aggregation will number approximately 240, according to advance information. The police band will play compliments to both delegations. The Texas group will leave the station about 2 o'clock in the afternoon and the program has been so arranged.

DOBBS APPOINTED TO HIGH POSITION WITH NU-GRAPE CO.

Promotion of W. Guy Dobbs, for the past six years connected with the Nu-Grape Bottling Company of America in an official capacity, to the post of general director of public relations, was announced Friday by W. E.

W. GUY DOBBS.

Small, vice president, Mr. Dobbs assumed his new duties Friday with headquarters at the home office at 354 Nelson street. He has been general manager and a director for several years.

Mr. Dobbs has just returned from an extensive tour of Florida in the interests of his firm. While a visitor at Miami he was a guest of Jimmy Walker, New York's mayor. Mr. Dobbs has been a member of the Atlanta city council for several years and is now chairman of the bridges committee, the body directing erection of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts.

VICTIM OF POISON GIVES HER NAME AS ESTELLE MOORE

A comely young woman who was taken to Grady hospital late Thursday suffering from self-administered poison and who refused to tell physicians anything about herself or why she took the draught, identified herself to newspapermen Friday as Estelle Moore of Birmingham.

Beyond this, however, she refused to discuss herself except to express regret that the poison had failed to do its work. It was noted that her eyes remained red and swollen from crying during the day.

Attaches of the hospital reported that she was well dressed when an ambulance brought her from the Terminal station where she had swooned in the ladies' retiring room after swallowing the contents of a bottle.

Although she still was reported in a semi-stupor, it was said that emergency treatment given her probably would result in a quick recovery. Local authorities communicated with Birmingham today concerning her case.

WEST VIRGINIA SUSPECTS IN BANK ROBBERY RELEASED

Because of lack of positive identification Raymond Stutler and Clinton Matheny, ex-federal convicts and suspects in the recent holdup of the Tenth Street branch of the Citizens & Southern bank, were released Friday from the Clarksburg, W. Va., jail on orders from local authorities.

SIXTH ARREST IN CLIO BURNING OF NEGROES MADE

Montgomery, Ala., March 1.—(AP)—The sixth arrest in an investigation by state and county officers into the fatal burning three weeks ago of three negroes near Clio, Ala., was made here today when Ralph Clark, of Ozark, Ala., was taken into custody on murder and arson charges.

Officers of Dale and Montgomery county expressed the belief that the arrest here had placed in jail the "key man" in the case.

Clark's arrest followed the disclosure last night by the state fire marshal's office of five arrests, three men and two women, in the state since Saturday night, on charges involving arson and murder growing out of the deaths of Riley Varner, a negro, and his two small children in Barbour county.

The others arrested are Willis Sconers, who is confined to the Montgomery county jail with Clark; Horace Carter, held in the Dale county jail at Ozark; and Clarence King, Eunice Booth and an unidentified woman being held in the Barbour county jail at Clifton, Ala.

Bond Issue of $75,000,000 For Good Roads in Georgia Urged by Walter Stewart

Fulton County Commissioner Advocates Proposal in Address Before College Park Club.

A $75,000,000 bond issue for good roads in Georgia was advocated Thursday night by Walter B. Stewart, of the Fulton county commission, in an address at the meeting of the "30" club of College Park at the College Park Woman's club. Mr. Stewart told the club of the proposal of the committee of the association of county commissioners to float such a bond issue and said that if the plan is approved in April, at the annual meeting of the commissioners in August, it will be put up to the state legislature for a referendum of the people.

The plan as outlined by Mr. Stewart calls for the issue of $75,000,000 in bonds every year for five years at the principal and interest of the $75,000,000 to be retired in 35 years out of gasoline tax. Out of the $75,000,000, the counties would be paid their bond issue would furnish a good start, the state for road building, so that the counties could devote the money to building local roads.

The bond issue would give Georgia a modern system of roads on the county seat-to-county seat plan, according to Mr. Stewart's view. He said that the bond sale would give the highway department an income of about $18,000,000 a year instead of $8,000,000, and would allow the completion of the roads started by the department as well as the building of other trunk lines.

There are a good many counties which will not or cannot issue bonds for their part of the road building, and the strong counties must aid the weaker ones, Mr. Stewart pointed out. He said that Fulton county pledged its gasoline tax for five years to aid in the completion of route nine, from Blairsville to Dahlonega to Atlanta. The main paved highway through Henry county touches only one end of the county, and in Clayton county the situation is the same, but these counties put up the money to build state roads, although they receive no material benefit from it, Mr. Stewart said.

He urged completion of the county seat-to-county seat system as now laid out, and said that the $75,000,000 bond issue would furnish a good start, the state for road building, so that

Franchise Application of Natural Gas Corporation Will Be Considered at Meeting of Council Monday

The route of the projected pipe line of the Southern Natural Gas Corporation is shown above as it is now definitely planned. The solid line indicates that portion of the system which is assured, while the broken line indicates the extensions which will be made if Atlanta grants the requested franchise of the company. Starting in the heart of the Louisiana holdings of the company, the line runs east and north, through the towns and cities shown on the route. In addition to the main line, there are several smaller branch mains which will serve towns off the main route. Almost without exception, the fifty or more cities shown along the solid line have granted franchises and will receive the natural gas as soon as the lines are completed, it is said by officers of the company. Extending of the lines far into Georgia rests with Atlanta, company officials stated Friday. Several million dollars will be spent on the system and it is planned to have the gas available for all users by October 31.

City council Monday will be called upon to act on the application of the Southern Natural Gas Corporation for permission to lay its mains through Atlanta and to set up its distributing system here.

Judge R. C. Allen, general counsel for the company, and an associate, J. Hart Willis, Friday conferred at length with Mayor J. N. Ragsdale outlining their project to him. Announcement also was made Friday of the adding of several new legal staff of William B. Hartsfield, former alderman from the third ward.

Officials of the company have expressed their hope that the request will be referred to some committee which will make a complete and thorough investigation of the project and make a report not later than the March 18 meeting of council, so that action may be taken at that time.

It has been announced that the pipe lines, starting from the Louisiana fields of the company, are certain to be built as far east as Rockmart and disposition—that providing the money for next year's expenses of the interior department.

ADDITION OF FUND IS VINDICATION.

Washington, March 1.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—Consent tonight on the compromise agreement reached by house and senate conferees with respect to prohibition funds in the deficiency appropriation bills, Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, had the following to say:

Under all circumstances those members of the senate and the house who believed that additional appropriations were necessary for the proper and accurate enforcement of the prohibition laws felt that the final compromise on additional appropriation of $3,000,000 for prohibition enforcement at this time is a distinct vindication of our position.

"While we do not feel that this sum is at all sufficient, nevertheless, it will make possible a material increase in the number of prohibition agents, although the secretary of the treasury, who is the administrator official in charge of prohibition enforcement, at first formally insisted that no additional funds for prohibition enforcement were desired or could be used advantageously or economically, and other administration cabinets supported him in his contention, the sentiment in congress and throughout the country which was aroused by the introduction of my amendment to the first deficiency bill and the debate upon it in the senate and the house show unmistakably that the country and the congress are overwhelmingly in favor of the honest and accurate enforcement of the law.

"I believe the discussion provoked by my amendment has resulted in renewed and increased strength for the prohibition law. And I am confident at the next regular congress the prohibition enforcement department of the government will include in its budget a request for a much larger sum for the enforcement law than has been asked of the congress heretofore. I believe that President-elect Hoover is in thorough sympathy with the effort to bring about honest and adequate enforcement of the prohibition law and that he will lend his influence to this end.

ROAD BONDS WIN CAROLINA HOUSE

sage on second reading of a similar bill originating in the senate brought the house of representatives closer to the senate position today.

Both bills were passed without record vote.

The house and senate measures were similar except that the house bill provides that surety bonds be contracted by the state sinking fund commission, a provision which would save to the state a part of at least $250,000, according to the commission secretary. The house bill also cut the amount of bonds to be issued in one year from $20,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Proponents of the bond issue assured themselves that the senate measure at least would get into free conference by striking out a vital part of the senate bill. This action was taken in order that the senate might not accept the house amendments and that a free conference might be had on certain technical phases in both bills which some of their proponents considered objectionable.

As the senate bill was farther advanced in its legislative career than the house measure, representatives paid more attention to it and voted to return to work tomorrow for the first Saturday meeting this year, in order that they might pass it a third time, send it back to the senate with amendments and get it into free conference before the week-end recess.

A bill providing for the surface treating of the "Old State Road" which connects Charleston and Columbia by the most direct route. Some time later it passed to third reading a senate bill for the same purpose. The "Old State Road" paving had been agitated at every legislature for a number of years, but always had been defeated. The "Old State Road" in spite of being unpaved, has been popular with through motor traffic, as it was a straight line through a lonely, little-populated territory and allows high speed with little slowing up for towns.

An attempt to consider a proposed 6-cent gasoline tax bill tonight was defeated when the house refused to make it a special order of business.

AMERICAN WIDOW HELD FOR MURDER OF MATE

ball in superior court, but meanwhile Mrs. Grantham was held in jail. She was detained recently at Cordle after authorities began an investigation of her story that her husband shot and killed himself as she lay asleep at his side.

Sheriff W. A. McArthur had a statement from the county physician that it was "possible but not probable" that Grantham killed himself, and other efforts to effect that the Granthams quarreled just prior to the husband's death.

Witnesses testifying for the widow at her preliminary hearing said Grantham had threatened suicide in their presence, and the widow herself made a statement to that effect.

"I didn't kill Oscar and I wouldn't care for all this except for my little children," Mrs. Grantham told newspapermen today.

Grantham was shot and killed as he lay in bed, his wife declaring she believed he took his own life.

The action was taken by Judge Harper, who earlier this week had presided over a commitment hearing for Mrs. Grantham following her arrest as she and her sister were en route to South Carolina by automobile.

"While the evidence in the main is circumstantial," said Judge Harper's decision, "upon careful analysis and consideration of it I am impressed that it gives rise to a reasonable cause to suspect that a crime was committed, resulting in the death of C. L. Grantham and that the defendant is implicated in the commission thereof. Hence, it is the duty of this court to commit the defendant for the offense of murder to the end that she may appear before the court competent to try her."

Attorneys for the accused woman said they would apply for bail in superior court. Mrs. Grantham, an attractive woman of 27 years, exhibited no emotion as the court announced its decision. Later, however, she cried to newspapermen:

"God knows I did not kill Oscar and I wouldn't care about all this except for my little children."

The children, who are girls, aged six and three years, respectively, will be taken to the woman's mother in Waterboro, S. C., it was announced.

our position that additional funds were necessary for proper and adequate enforcement of the prohibition law.

The total amount agreed upon includes the proposal of Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, of $250,000 for a dry inquiry by a presidential commission.

About to retire from the senate leadership to assume the vice presidency Senator Curtis, of Kansas, joined the conferees today and threw his support to the compromise negotiations which proved successful after four hours more of wrangling. It is the ambition of the veteran Kansan to quit the senate with his work done and there are indications tonight that his hopes would be fulfilled.

Vote Separately.

The plan of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and Senator Glass, of the first and second deficiency bills be separated and acted upon individually was approved after the senate had added $24,000,000 to the first deficiency bill, the measure was abandoned in conference and the house incorporated all of its provisions except those in controversy in the second measure.

Each bill will now be acted upon separately. The conferees also reached a compromise on one amendment of Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, providing for publicity of hearings on tax refunds. It will be retained in the bill in modified form.

Further negotiations were in prospect to conclude some of the details in reaching agreements on the long list of amendments added to the second bill by the senate but the conferees hoped to submit an early final report on this bill. No great obstacle was in prospect on that measure.

With the two bills on the way to final passage only one of the vital appropriation measures awaited final action.

At the capital today Charles G. Daves rapped occasionally for order in the senate and Charles Curtis, of Kansas, who will succeed him as vice president, faced him from the floor.

Daves occupied the presiding officer's chair and Curtis remaining until the end of the session as leader of the republican forces.

Mr. Hoover had finished the task of preparing himself to take over the administration of a government of 120,000,000 people. He had selected his cabinet, decided the address which he will deliver to his countrymen, and was ready to begin a period of service such as even his active life has never afforded.

President Coolidge, with seven years of duty behind him, happy that he had served, but with a feeling of regret at the breaking of old ties, turned his eyes toward his Northampton home, where the career that eventually led to the white house was begun. On Monday there will be a brief ceremony on the capital plaza.

Hoover will become President Hoover and President Coolidge will become Mr. Coolidge and the destinies of the nation will be in his hands.

Huge Crowd in Capital.

Drawn by the promise of witnessing this wholly American ceremony the crowds arrived in constantly increasing number tonight to find a city decked with bunting and flags. Long rows of stands stood out along Pennsylvania avenue to seat the tens of thousands who choose to witness the inaugural parade from points of vantage. Space in upper windows was converted into box-like affairs from which the spectacle could be viewed, and even the dingy area on lower Pennsylvania avenue which is to be taken over for government buildings, was bright with colorful decorations.

Around hotel lobbies, on the streets, and at other centers where people gather the scenes were those which only an inaugural period can create. There were delegations on hand from many states. Military uniforms were abundant. The novelty salesmen were busy everywhere with their badges and souvenirs.

Representatives for all kinds of conveniences reported an unending stream of visitors. Special trains were en route; automobiles with foreign tags filled the city's garages, and the larger hotels were unable to care for additional guests. It was indicated that sleeping room would be a premium by Sunday night, although the inaugural committee believed that the accommodations it had arranged would be ample for all visitors.

A PERNICIOUS SYSTEM.

Discussion of how best to frame a board of education for a progressive city is threshing over old and discarded straw.

In practically every advancing city of the country the plan of electing members of the school board by wards has been abandoned because it subjected the school interests to those of ward politicians and resulted more often than otherwise in the election of men notoriously incompetent to deal intelligently with so vital an institution as a public education system.

An interested and progressive citizen, George B. Hinman, writes cogently upon the subject in a letter to The Constitution, which is printed in another column and which deserves the attention of the advisory commission now studying the condition and needs of the Atlanta schools.

AN EXAMPLE IN TEXAS.

The people of Texas have a just and acute pride in the greatness of their mammoth state and in the good repute of their commonwealth institutions.

They have a state capital which cost many millions of dollars and which is second in size and architectural majesty only to the national capital at Washington. By the deteriorations of time and usage the building needs some restoration and $3,000,000 is to be spent for repairs, renovation and refurbishing. One can but admire the spirit of the Texans who are unwilling that their state's capital shall rank beneath the general modernity of the commonwealth and its condition draw criticism from their own citizens and from visitors from other states.

The prideful and generous example thus given by the Texans should not be lost upon the people of Georgia, whose capital building cost a third of what Texas will spend upon the refurbishing of their state house.

The Georgia capital, as The Constitution recently graphically disclosed, is in a deplorable condition of dilapidation. The coming general assembly should provide fully for its restoration to a condition of public decency and sufficiency.

COTTON BY NET WEIGHT.

The house of congress has passed the bill providing standard cotton cloth covers for baled cotton and for the use of net weights in interstate and foreign transactions in cotton. There is strong hope that this important measure will pass the senate before it adjourns at noon on Monday.

The value of this bill when enacted to the cotton growers of the south can scarcely be estimated in advance of actual operations under it, but all cotton experts agree that it will produce millions of dollars in savings to the cotton producers.

The committee on agriculture in its report to the house said the bill would reduce and standardize the tare, the hearings showing that by the operations of the law the tare on American exported cotton would be reduced from 6 to 3 per cent, or from 30 pounds to 15 pounds off the gross weight of a bale. Another advantage, according to the committee, was that bagging made from low-grade cotton would be used as wrapping instead of jute or burlap, as is now the practice.

Investigations made by the department of agriculture disclose the fact that bales of cotton wrapped in cotton bagging make a better and more attractive appearance when placed on the market, and that there will be less waste, cheaper insurance rates, and a consequent economic saving to the producer, shipper, and manufacturer.

With such appealing conclusions arrived at by congressional research there should be no longer hesitancy in the enactment of the profitable measure.

Southern members of congress will no doubt give it their hearty support and confer its manifest benefits as speedily as possible upon their constituents.

BEGGING FOR A STONE.

While all save the Gump family are fairly looking upon the "noble experiment" of national prohibition as having reached most ignoble conditions, it will be well to keep the public mind in correct grooves while considering the problem of what to do about prohibition.

The Wisconsin general assembly has just approved a joint resolution memorializing congress "to provide for a national referendum on the question of modifying the Volstead act."

Congress will ditch the memorial on the ground that it has no constitutional authority to provide for the requested referendum.

In order to obtain "information" to aid in devising legislation, congress can hold as many committee hearings as it wills and listen to as many interested citizens as its time and patience will allow.

But when it is proposed that congress shall order the states to employ their electoral machinery for the purpose of taking the sense of their citizens as to whether congress shall enact or modify a law of the United States the congress will be asked to assume a power not granted to it by the constitution and that many of the states would repudiate by a plump refusal to put the referendum question upon their state-wide ballots.

In 1867, when the interstate war was impending, there were five proposals submitted in the congress
"to take the sense of the people" upon a suggested constitutional amendment designed to pacify the sectional strife. They were introduced by such men as Crittenden, of Kentucky, backed by Stephen A.
Douglas, and by other strong congressmen like Bigler, Cochrane and Martin. The referendum proposals were carefully considered by committees and lengthily debated in both senate and house, but they were rejected upon the almost sole ground that such reference to the people would be beyond the constitutional power of congress.

It would be illuminating, certainly, to have the people in all the states on a given day vote pro and con on the issue of maintaining or modifying the prohibition law, but the result would be no more than an expression of the sentiments of the voters on that day.

The better plan is the constitutional one of letting the people in the congressional districts and in the states express their sentiments on prohibition in the character and views of the representatives and senators whom they send to the congress. Those elections constitute a real national referendum.

Now all that is necessary is for an aviator to press a button and a light appears over the air field.
Next we look for him to press a button and alight on the field.

Live and learn is a good motto, but most of us have to live and un-learn.

It's ticklish business talking dis-sentiment with every nation's finger on the trigger.

We want other nations to stop building warships so we can stop and they want us to stop so they can stop, and there is no stop in any of us.

Mr. Coolidge is still undecided as to his future plans. He might take up the silent drama where he left off.

The Borah-Reed prohibition argument can be analyzed by Borah's admission that John Barleycorn has turned up his toes, and Reed's declaration that prohibition makes us turn up our nose.

There is an opening in this country for the retiring president to organize what can be called a Coolidge club, the main object of having members pledge to keep their mouths shut.

The Prince of Wales has sold his stable without consulting the Paraphernalia Union.

The world will never grow better until we can get rid of some of our prejudices without acquiring new ones.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Life in Moscow.

The thing that struck me most about Moscow life after an absence of five years is the improvement in dress, so writes Dr. Graefenberg to the Vossische Zeitung. "There is no luxury yet," he goes on to say, "but I noticed young communists buying cosmetics and high-heeled shoes for their wives or girls and there is a brisk trade in silk shawls. The bal-letinas, actresses and singers of the various theaters, who are permitted to indulge in more luxury than other mortals, are no longer sneered at in the streets as spendthrifts and capricious, but such ladies are frankly admired. "You see plenty of men in leather jackets, wearing protective capes and government boots, promenading with ladies garbed in Persian lamb skin coats and silk gowns," says the German observer.
And the few commissars who are entitled to the use of a motor car for official purposes take very good care to flaunt their privilege before the eyes of the masses, out of office hours, so to speak. Hardly any cafes and restaurants, so that a great deal of the social life is restricted to the streets. Jazz is frowned upon, although extremely popular with the masses. The communists have an interest in the automobile, because it is an invention of capitalism. Hence most of the music one hears is of the melancholy Russian sort, with bitter and despairing lyrics. The greatest luxury in Moscow is intimacy. The city is so overcrowded and the population grows so fast that service in the apartment houses is a quarrel and love in one room. Rooms are divided into partitions with the aid of curtains and cupboards, and this is the nearest approach to intimacy.

Heresy.

Stalin's supporters among the intelligentsia in Russia have long proposed to launch an abundant investigation, just like the Koran of Mo-hammadism is considered a guide for spiritual, political and communal life. So, it is said, the communists are not concerned solely with politics and social relationships, but also with art and culture. But now there is a rather complete silence on the part of the pure Leninists that writers and artists are more and more being attacked with heresy. The big book published by the Soviet government, "The Ten Years' Struggle," is a collection of the 100 per cent communist writers. The publishers rather print the names of the writers and Marxists, and the names of the writers and Marxists, and the names of the writers and Marxists, and the names of the

"Minding Own Business" Greatest Achievement, Says Coolidge to Reporters

Last Cabinet Meeting of Administration Held; President Thanks Offi- cers for Their Help.

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—At last ready to go home again, after eight eventful years in high place, President Coolidge today said goodbye to those officials who have been nearest him during his service in Washington.

At the last cabinet meeting of his administration he gave a final word of thanks and a parting hand clasp to the department heads who have gathered twice a week with him to make the decisions which shape the course of national history; then, in a final conference with the Washington correspondents he told his questioners that he considered his one superlative achievement in Washington had been minding his own business.

To others who dropped in during his last working day but one in the white house Mr. Coolidge said goodbye and expressed again and again his feeling that the most difficult part of his leaving was the breaking of personal ties—more difficult than giving up the presidency itself. But with all of his manifest regret there was about the president's manner something of that wistfulness for peace and quiet which never has left him in his great hours of triumph.

Three years ago, in his exclusive interview with the Associated Press, Mr. Coolidge said:

Wanted to Go Home.

"Mrs. Coolidge and I say to each other sometimes that we wish we could go back home."

In the same interview, speaking of his periodic visits to his birthplace in Vermont, he spoke of the little homely things that any man must forego when he sits in a place of high responsibility.

"I like to dispense with the kind of service that it is necessary for me to have at the white house and wait on myself. If I find a strap is broken, I like to get out the tools that are used by shoemakers and harnessmakers, make a waxed end, and repair it. I like to go out and repair the fence when it is breaking down and mend the latch on the kitchen door."

He declined to be drawn out today as to his future, turning aside goodnaturedly repeated questions on that subject. He has several offers from syndicates that want to publish anything he may write, among them a profile of employment from the Encyclopedia Americana. Mr. Coolidge told the assembled correspondents at his press conference that he did not feel he would be especially successful as a reporter, but that the encyclopedia project was a worthy one and he hoped the press would give it a hand.

Nor would he expand on his reply to another question that he considered minding his own business the greatest thing he had achieved in Washington.

"This morning's cabinet meeting found the various department heads dropping in at the white house executive offices one by one, and leaving in the same fashion, as though the meeting were just one of their ordinary semi-weekly gatherings, and not the final one of the administration."

Business as Usual.

As one member put it, "business as usual" was the slogan, but there was, nevertheless, a spirit of regret, which at the conclusion of the session reached embodiment in verbal expression by the cabinet officers and by the president as well. Mr. Coolidge thanked the department heads for their service to him and to the nation and expressed a deep personal regret that his close association with them had almost come to an end.

Mr. Coolidge will journey to his home at Northampton on Monday on a special car attached to the "Mountaineer" of the Pennsylvania railroad. His car will be detached upon the arrival of the limited at the Massachusetts town shortly before midnight and the then former president will remain aboard until morning. Colonel James P. Connel, the white house physician, will accompany him, as will his personal secretary, Edward T. Clark, who is himself a native of Mr. Coolidge's town.

SOLDIER CONFESSES KILLING OF MAN SIX MONTHS AGO

Greenville, S. C., March 1.—(AP)—Nearly six months of third degree pressure imposed by his own troubled conscience have drawn from a soldier a confession to the killing of a man, according to Sheriff Cliff R. Bramlett, who is on his way here today with the prisoner in custody.

The sheriff said Fred Ware, formerly of this city, had written him a letter in which the soldier confessed that on September 17, 1928, he killed Rufus Paxton, of Pelzer, S. C., and threw his body into the Saluda river.

A warrant was issued charging Ware with murder and Sheriff Bramlett left yesterday for Charleston, where Fort Moultrie is located, to make the arrest.

Malvin Thompson and Elbert Johnson were arrested shortly after the body of Paxton was found floating in the river, the head in a mutilated condition. They were ordered held by a coroner's jury and are under charges now.

J. F. NASH ENTERS SUIT FOR $10,000 FOR SON'S DEATH

J. F. Nash Friday filed suit in the city court of Atlanta for $10,000 damages for the death of his son, Lester Lee Nash, who was killed in an automobile-train accident at the North avenue crossing on February 1. The Western and Atlantic railroad was named as defendant. The petition was filed by George and John L. Westmoreland and F. Joe Turner, Jr.

INSTRUMENT NOTES HARD EARTHSHOCK

New York, March 1.—(AP)—The seismograph at Fordham university recorded a "very severe" earthquake within 1,000 miles of New York today.

Because of the severity of the disturbance officials believed it must have occurred in the ocean bed. If it had been on land they were convinced it would have done large damage.

The first shock was at 2:45 o'clock this morning. Maximum intensity was recorded at 2:49 and the disturbance continued until 4 o'clock. At 4:17 there was an additional shock.

The southbound Chicago-Atlanta plane was caught by darkness at Chattanooga and spent the night at the airport there.

The New Orleans delayed its departure until the arrival of the New York mail.

Not officials of Interstate Airlines, Inc., operators of the Atlanta-New Orleans route, have directed that information regarding the arrival and departure of their planes be given out.

The Gate City Aero club, an organization which is assuming real importance in aviation circles here, is to hold a supper at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Vaughan's tea room, next to the Rialto theater. Officials have announced that, in addition to its membership, air enthusiasts and the public in general are urged to attend.

Everett Williams, of Greenville, S. C., president of the Williams Flying service, will be guest of honor and is scheduled to deliver the principal address of the occasion.

Avery E. Lord, representative of the Providence (R. I.) Journal, who is making an extended air tour of the country, inspecting landing facilities, passed through Atlanta Friday and was enthusiastic about conditions he found at the airports at Spartanburg, Greensboro and Atlanta. The party, which consisted of Mr. Lord, Major O. Caylor, Mrs. Gladys Nye, his sister, and the pilot, Bob Kann, landed here in a five-place Fairchild cabin monoplane. They were met at Candler field by Ellis B. Barrett, chairman of the aviation committee of city council, and a conference later was held with Mayor Ragsdale.

HOPES TO ENACT TREATY BANNING WAR FADE

Coolidge, Kellogg Wanted Treaty Put into Effect Be- fore End of Session.

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Hopes of the president and Secretary Kellogg to have the multi-lateral treaty renouncing war placed in full effect before they leave office on Monday were virtually abandoned today.

The secretary of state in a letter today to Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, said that ratification of the treaty by three of the original fifteen signatory nations was needed to make the document operative.

The three nations which have not ratified are Belgium, France and Japan. The treaty is before the Belgian senate, but advises indicate that ratification before Monday is unlikely. Mr. Kellogg understands that Foreign Minister Briand, of France, a co-author of the pact, is hopeful of ratification by his government before Monday. The treaty is also before the Japanese diet.

Tomorrow morning eleven of the original fifteen signatory countries will deposit their ratifications with the state department. The eleven orig-

HOUSE APPROVES LIBERAL CHANGE IN VETERANS' ACT

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—The house today passed the Johnson bill to liberalize provisions of the world war veterans' act. The measure now goes to the senate.

Among other changes, the measure would remove the time limit for disabled veterans to file claims for compensation. Under the present law the time would expire on April 6, 1930.

The measure also would increase from $20 to $30 a month the compensation paid veterans in government hospitals who have no dependents.

The house also passed and sent to the senate the Hawley bill to reduce to 6 per cent the interest rates charged on loans made upon veterans' adjusted compensation certificates.

The present law fixes such interest at 2 per cent more than the rate charged at the date of the loan for the discount of 90-day commercial paper.

Initial signatories which have ratified the treaty in addition to the United States are Great Britain, Germany, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, South Africa, Irish Free State and Poland.

Summarizing the situation, Secretary Kellogg reported that all but two of the independent nations of the world—Argentina and Brazil—have adhered to the pact or have signified their intention of doing so.

"I was in a badly weakened, nervous and run-down condition. I lacked energy and strength, was low spirited, and didn't take much interest in anything. I hardly knew what a sound night's sleep was."

"My shoulders, arms and knees hurt me terribly nearly all the time, and then my stomach got all out of order. I was told I had intestinal indigestion, but whatever it was, it caused me a lot of pain and suffering. Most every time I ate anything, the most severe pains would come in my lower bowels, and extend up into my stomach. This increased my nervousness, and extreme acidity from souring food made me feel worse in every way. I had very little appetite and finally reached the point where I was afraid to eat any solid food, and very little of any kind. I used to take four or five doses of soda every day trying to get relief. I heard so much about Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills that I decided to try them and I knew right after beginning the treatment that I had found one medicine at last that would give me relief."

"Now my appetite is fine. I eat anything I want and am never bothered with any bad after effects. The pains in my stomach and bowels are gone as well as the pains in my shoulders, arms and knees. I sleep splendidly at nights now, am full of new energy and strength and go about my work feeling well and strong in every way. Sargon Soft Mass Pills are a wonderful laxative. They are mild but dependable, and I regard them as an important part of the treatment."

The above statement was made recently by A. R. Sanford, of 344 Windsor St., S. W. Mr. Sanford is a well-known salesman for J. J. Haverly Furniture Co., and is highly esteemed and popular with a wide circle of personal and business friends.

The Sargon representative is at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of the medicine. Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills may also be obtained at the other Jacobs stores all over Atlanta.—(adv.)

WICIT OF $1,500,000 IN GEORGIA TREASURY

Official Audit Shows State in Debt at End of 1928; Revenues Explained.

Georgia's treasury at the end of 1928 showed a deficit amounting to approximately $1,500,000 in the general fund, according to a report filed with Governor L. G. Hardman Friday by Sam J. Slate, state auditor, following an audit of the books of the treasury department. Mr. Slate compared the conditions existing at the end of 1928 with the years 1927 and 1928 and showed that surpluses existed in the general fund at the end of those years. The surplus for 1927 was $1,500,000 and the surplus at the end of 1928 was $1,000,000, according to the auditor.

Expenditures from the general fund in 1928, Auditor Slate's comments indicated, absorbed the surplus carried over from 1927. Governor Hardman said that the deficit in the general fund was occasioned by diversion of the rental money from the Western & Atlantic railroad property and portions of the fuel oil tax to other funds. Excessive appropriations, in comparison with anticipated revenues, were blamed by other state officials for the showing.

The state's total income during 1928 amounted to $24,000,000, which included $30,422,492 from general sources and $14,231,514 from fuel oil taxes, motor vehicle licenses and other special sources and allocated to specific departments.

Counties of the state received $2-

RETURN TO BASIC IDEA IN EDUCATION URGED

Wells Says National Leaders Advocate Efficiency and Economy in Schools.

Adherence to more of the fundamental principles in education, as well as efficiency and economy of operation, was stressed at the superintendents and officials convention of the National Education association in Cleveland, Ohio, said Jere Wells, county school superintendent, Friday on his return from the meeting.

Mr. Wells said that considerable interest was exhibited in the summer meeting of the association, which will be held in Atlanta June 28-July 4, for the first time since 1888. More than 15,000 delegates and visitors are expected to attend the meeting this summer, as against less than 500 at the 1888 convention. This will be the first session in the south, except for one at Charleston, since the 1888 meeting.

Reports at the convention showed that many school systems are returning to the 11-year plan of seven years of grammar school and four years of high school, instead of the 12 or 13-year system of six years of grammar school, three years of high school, and three years of college preparatory school, which has been the standard in the north and west, he said. The only remaining "one-teacher" school in the Fulton county system, that at Chestnut Ridge, will be consolidated with another school next winter, Mr. Wells said.

Municipalities and school districts throughout the country are being urged to return to the basic idea of efficiency and economy in education, he said. "Every interest of the people of the United States demands that the democratic party be built up to a point where it can truly be called a major party," Mr. Rice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rice, of Macon, and attended Mercer university for a time, taking part in debating activities.

Dr. Sam W. Small, of the Constitution's editorial staff, will occupy the pulpit of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, south, at the Sunday evening service. Dr. Small is an old friend of Dr. Fraser, the veteran pastor, as well as of the congregation, for which he has preached on many past occasions.

The meeting of Sunday evening will be specialized for the younger people of the church, and Dr. Small has been urged to address his sermon particularly to their religious opportunities.

Mr. Norman is now visiting in Augusta and will call the commission together soon after he returns to Atlanta.

Circle A, of the Business Women's League, of the Second Baptist church, will be in charge of the special meeting Sunday afternoon, to be addressed by Dr. Roland C. Young, it was announced Friday.

Miss Elizabeth Taylor is chairman of the circle and Mrs. J. W. McCullough is co-chairman. Dr. Young will speak on "What Seek Ye?"

He was just a medium-sized little pup, mostly white, with a big black eye and trying mightily hard to be a fox terrier, though there seemed to be several other breeds struggling to predominate.

He came trotting up the street, moving along in that side-winding fashion that dogs have, sniffing inquisitively at this and that. A piece of paper dancing across the street in the breeze caught his eye and he trotted over to investigate. Then he desisted that to go sniffing around a catch-basin opening at the corner. Here disaster overcame him.

Something down there in that hole interested him and he stuck his head in to see about it. He leaned over, far, and in a minute there was a resounding ker-plump as the pup, of a necessity, went swimming.

"Kis-yi-yi!" the sound of a pup in distress, came floating upwards and out into the street. The call wasn't heeded. A rather well-dressed young fellow of about 20 was standing across the street waiting for a street car and had seen the whole thing. He dashed to the rescue. Off came a clean gray hat and overcoat of the same color, and down in the gutter he went in a freshly-pressed suit. Going half-way into the opening, his hand reached down, he grasped the pup firmly by the scruff of the neck and lifted the canine nator out to dry land.

The pup shook himself and trotted on his inquisitive way. The young man brushed off his clothes, put on his coat and hat and went back to wait for his street car. That happened during the pleasant morning of Friday.

When Her Shoe Heel Is Dislocated, Lady May Enforce Repair

When a gentleman in congested late afternoon pedestrian traffic inadvertently steps on a lady's foot and causes the heel of her shoe to become loose, the traditionally chivalrous thing to do would be to accompany the victim to the nearest shoe repair shop and have matters adjusted.

Late Friday afternoon when the busy throngs were scurrying across Marietta street at Broad, a man of exceedingly small stature had the misfortune to dislocate the heel of a shoe worn by a lady weighing no less than 250 pounds.

The diminutive trespasser immediately offered profound apology to the excited woman, and started to "leave the scene of the accident" without leading material aid to the distressed pedestrian, who insisted that he escort her to the most imminent shoe fixery.

The man had taken one step with a view of leaving when the woman, then greatly enraged, grasped him roughly by the right ear and demanded justice.

And they were last seen as they entered a nearby shoe repairing place.

Princeton Debate Prize Is Awarded To Macon Youth

Through his own remarkable forensic ability and with the aid of letters from Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Senator James Reed, John Howard Rice, of Macon, recently won the Princeton university inter-class debate.

Debate the question "Resolved: The democratic party has a future in our country as a major party," the young Georgian met representatives of the senior, junior and sophomore classes. He was voted the best of the speakers by the judges and was awarded the $100 prize offered by the class of 1876.

He upheld the affirmative of the question and in a masterly way developed his ideas, backing oratory and logic with facts and with the opinions of the veteran Missouri senator and the popular New York governor, both of whom aided him in his debate by writing letters on their party and its future.

The very division which the democratic party has so often experienced is its greatest asset and its greatest hope for future power, he maintained. He explained this by saying that always it has been the party which has faced squarely its moral and political problems and even though this has sometimes divided the party it has thus kept its reputation for integrity and honesty of purpose.

He emphatically stated that democracy's future in the south is assured, and basing his opinion on his southern upbringing, ventured that not for many generations will it cease to be the "white man's" party and, therefore, the major party of the south.

Quoting from Governor Roosevelt's letter he said, in conclusion, after pointing out various ways in which the democratic party has and does benefit the people, he said: "Every interest of the people of the United States demands that the democratic party be built up to a point where it can truly be called a major party."

It can truly be called a major party," Mr. Rice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rice, of Macon, and attended Mercer university for a time, taking part in debating activities.

AIR TANK TRAGEDY LAID TO 'ACCIDENT'

Explosion That Killed Seven
Due to "Lamentable Accident," Probe Indicates.

While Solicitor General Claude E. Smith, of DeKalb county, indicated following an investigation, that his department found nothing to warrant grand jury action, officials of the Stone Mountain Granite corporation and insurance inspectors late Friday continued their searching probe of the air tank explosion which Thursday killed seven workers and injured as many more.

Solicitor Smith stated Friday afternoon, after personally investigating the scene of the blast, that as nearly as he could determine the affair was a lamentable accident. He explained, however, that should the company's probe bring to light any criminal negligence or any other contributing criminal cause his department and the grand jury will deal with it.

George Weiblen, secretary-treasurer of the company, with a number of insurance inspectors from the firm of Adams, Holmes & Eckford, were on the scene of the explosion early Friday and through the day went over the ground and inspected several other tanks. They also questioned a number of employees, but Friday night declined to make public their findings pending the completion of the investigation.

It was explained by company officials that the air which collected in the exploding tank, had passed safely through six tanks hooked in series, the safety valves apparently functioning properly in those tanks. There also are three or four tanks beyond the exploding one.

It was decided Friday that no formal inquest over the bodies would be held, but an informal inquest under the direction of Governor J. S. Thomas may be held later, it was stated. While funeral arrangements had not yet been completed for the victims, three of the more seriously injured were reported to be improving. Morris Brown, a driller, was improving rapidly at his home in Stone Mountain, Friday afternoon, while John Swain and Eugene Shinn, also were reported to be virtually out of danger at a local hospital.

Does Atlanta Want CHEAP GAS?

Natural gas—cheap, clean, efficient—will be available to Atlanta homes and industries by next winter—if Atlanta's progressive citizenship will say the word.

Much cheaper in price than manufactured gas, approximately twice as rich in heating power, natural gas has been a major factor in the phenomenal growth and prosperity of many cities of the Southwest—Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Kansas City.

Only 10% of the inhabitants of the United States are fortunate enough to enjoy the blessings of natural gas, yet so superior is it to manufactured gas that its consumption in the United States is three times that of the artificial fuel.

The introduction of natural gas, with its cleanliness, cheapness and convenience, will go far toward abating the troublesome and expensive smoke nuisance in Atlanta.

The Southern Natural Gas Corporation stands ready to bring this "fuel of progress" to your homes and industries.

Already amply financed, a great pipe line is bringing natural gas from the Monroe-Richland field of Louisiana to the forward-looking cities of Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama—and to Georgia, too, if Atlanta desires it.

Do you want Atlanta to have cheap gas? Or shall Atlanta lag behind?

WILBUR NOMINATED NINTH CIRCUIT JUDGE

Future Status of Coolidge Cabinet Member Settled by Move.

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy, was nominated by President Coolidge today to be United States circuit judge for the ninth circuit.

By the nomination President Coolidge settled the future status of one of the first members of his cabinet whose plans have become definitely known. The retirement of the secretary also will make it possible for Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur to become secretary of the interior in the Hoover cabinet without their being two brothers in the cabinet.

Mr. Wilbur, before assuming the office of secretary of the navy, was a justice of the supreme court of California. His judicial experience covered a period of 25 years and the circuit over which he will preside includes his home state of California.

The retiring secretary became a member of the Coolidge cabinet in 1924. Although a graduate of the naval academy, the trend of his mind has always been toward the judicial branch of the government.

In addition to Mr. Wilbur the plans

ENTIRE STATE OF OHIO IS SWEEPED BY FLOODS

Cleveland, March 1.—(AP)—Danger at two more points brought renewed apprehension along Ohio's swollen rivers today. An ice gorge in the Maumee river five miles above Toledo became a grave threat, while to the south the flood crest of the raging Scioto neared Portsmouth and the Ohio river, warning of destruction as it left marooned villages in its wake.

The ice gorge in the Maumee river was 15 feet high at the town of Maumee. Water was filling the lowlands today, backing rapidly behind the wall which river men feared could serve but little longer.

Destruction of one of Toledo's largest bridges was averted by chance when the lake freighter, W. C. Richmond, which had broken from its moorings, ran aground as it neared the bridge, packed in the moving ice.

The ship was hastily scuttled, and three others tied to nearby docks also will be sunk. They will be pumped out and raised when the danger is past.

The Scioto's rise reached its peak at Waverly early today and swept on to Jasper, a lowland village, which was cut off from outside communication. Residents were telling of moving their belongings to safety as the telephone lines went out. Roads were impassable to other villages.

Flood walls protected east of Portsmouth, where the Scioto enters the Ohio river, but nearby lowlands are not protected and it was feared the territory would suffer damage similar to that reported above there last night.

John Coolidge Gets First Wedding Present From Diplomatic Corps

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—A handsome silver bowl with four tall silver candlesticks has been taken to the white house by Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British ambassador to Washington, as a wedding gift to John Coolidge from the heads of the diplomatic nations accredited to this country.

Lady Isabella, as wife of the dean of the diplomatic corps, presented the gift to Mrs. Coolidge. They represented a token of the diplomatic corps' good wishes to the son of the chief executive soon to be married to Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor of Connecticut. They were also meant as an expression of gratitude on the part of the diplomats for the kindness and hospitality extended to them by President and Mrs. Coolidge during their term in the white house.

The silver bowl carried the following inscription:

"Presented to Mr. John Coolidge on the occasion of his marriage by the heads of diplomatic mission in Washington, 1929."

2 RAILROADS ATTACK B. & O.'S MERGER PLAN

L. & N. and Southern Object to B. & O. Acquiring the Monon.

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—The first attack on the gigantic railroad merger plan presented to the interstate commerce commission last week by the Baltimore & Ohio, was instituted today by hostile railroads.

The Southern system and the Louisville & Nashville, acting jointly, took direct issue with the merger project in so far as it involved the purchase of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, generally called the Monon system. They appealed to the commission not to allow the Baltimore & Ohio to purchase the Monon, pointing out that they owned 93 per cent of the outstanding Monon common stock and 77 per cent of its preferred.

"The petitioners do not desire and are wholly unwilling to sell the railroad," the Louisville & Nashville-Southern petition said, "their stock in it, or any part of their stock to the Baltimore & Ohio, or to lease the property."

It was further suggested that the intended acquisition of the Monon by the Baltimore & Ohio would violate anti-trust laws. The two objecting railroads together ask the opportunity to present evidence in argument against any Baltimore & Ohio advance toward acquiring the Monon.

2 PRISONERS FLEE N. C. STATE PRISON

Raleigh, N. C., March 1.—(AP)—State prison authorities disclosed today that two prisoners escaped from the penitentiary here last night, by cutting out of their cells and making their way to the roof of a building overlooking the walls, from where they slid down a water pipe.

The fugitives, both of whom had escaped previously and been recaptured, were Lawrence Clay, alias "E. Wompler," serving a five-year sentence, and William Croker, serving four to seven years.

Interior Department Measure Is Again Sent to Conference

GEORGIA DELEGATION LEAVES FOR INAUGURAL

Headed by Secretary Wilson, Military and Civilians Off for Washington.

Georgia's greetings to this country's new president will be conveyed Monday by a big delegation of military officers and civilians now on their way to Washington on special cars over the Southern railroad. The party will arrive in the capital at 8 o'clock Saturday morning. John B. Wilson, personal secretary to Governor L. G. Hardman, is the official head of the Georgia party. He was named by the governor to act for him because of the governor's inability to attend the inauguration ceremonies in person.

Military officers of the governor's staff were under the command of Adjutant General Homer C. Parker, who has arranged all details of the Washington trip. The Georgia delegation will be met by a special civilian aide named by the inauguration committee and also by a delegation representing the Georgia society in Washington.

The Georgians will attend the reception for governors which will be given Sunday night at the New Willard hotel. They also will be guests at the charity ball Monday night. The Georgia delegation will march in the second division of the inaugural parade and will be preceded by delegations from Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

Members of the governor's party and official staff who made the trip were: General Parker, Lieutenant Colonel J. B. Joel and Mrs. Joel, Atlanta; Lieutenant Colonel Arthur Flatau, Athens; Lieutenant Colonel Stewart D. Brown and Miss Mary Stewart Brown, Royston; Lieutenant Colonel John W. West, Dahlonega; Lieutenant Colonel Edgar L. Roberts, Atlanta; Lieutenant Colonel Nathan M. McCord, Miss Mildred McCord and Miss Margaret Brown, Rome; Lieutenant Colonel Hugh A. Carithers, Winder; Lieutenant Colonel R. Holmes Mason, Macon, and Mrs. F. G. Boatright, Cordele.

The Georgia delegation will extend to the new president an invitation to deliver an address in Atlanta before the annual convention of the National Education association which meets here June 30. This was announced Friday, Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of schools, received a letter several weeks ago from Mr. Hoover in which he promised to visit Atlanta and deliver the address if he was not detained by official business.

NEW CABLE LETTER SERVICE TO BRITAIN OPENED BY POSTAL

The Postal Telegraph system has instituted an overnight cable letter service with full telegraphic delivery to any point in Great Britain and Ireland at the uniform rate of six cents a word from Atlanta. Under the new rate it is possible to send 20 words for the minimum charge of $1.00 as compared with only 20 words for the same amount under the previous rate. This new service follows the announcement by Postal Telegraph Thursday of a new week-end cable letter service to Great Britain and Ireland.

Heretofore rates for night letters and week-end letters have been on a graduated scale and the public did not receive the benefit of the minimum word rates, except in cases where messages were of unusual length.

MOTHER AND SON UNITED BY STORY IN CONSTITUTION

A story published in The Constitution Friday morning was responsible for reuniting a mother and son whom she had not seen for six years. A Mrs. J. W. Osburn, of 1750 Indiana avenue, received a letter Thursday from Savannah saying that Edgar H. Osburn was seriously ill and asking that his mother, Mrs. Ed Carter, and his brother, Cliff M. Osburn, come to see him. Not being able to find the proper Osburn to deliver the letter to, she asked The Constitution to aid her search.

Mrs. Carter saw the notice Friday afternoon and left for Savannah Friday night.

CAPONE SERVED WITH SUBPOENA BY CHICAGO COURT

Miami Beach, Fla., March 1.—(AP) Al Capone, spending the winter at his island estate here, has been served with a subpoena to appear in Chicago courts in connection with recent alleged gang war killings, but he does not intend to appear in Chicago in answer to the summons, he said today. The subpoena was served by a deputy United States marshal from Jacksonville, he said.

Capone declared that he was not implicated in any of the killings, and said that he had no interest in the case in any way.

"I wasn't mixed up in it, and neither were any of my men," he declared. "I am not interested in the affair."

The former Chicago gang leader declared that he is tired of having his name drawn into Chicago gangsters' activities.

Atlanta City Salesmen Celebrate 32nd Birthday of Association Tonight

Members of the entertainment committee in charge of the observance of the 32nd birthday of the Atlanta City Salesmen's association, beginning at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Henry Grady hotel, are shown in the above picture. The organization is the oldest of its kind in the United States. Those shown left to right, front row, are W. W. "Whit" Moore, director of publicity; T. L. Simpson, president; Robert F. Pennington past president, and O. T. Camp; back row, E. F. Johnson, chairman of the committee; Carter C. Harrison, M. C. Morris, J. P. Hill and Frank Connell.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.

The oldest city salesmen's association in the United States, the Atlanta group, will observe its thirty-second birthday tonight.

In observance of the occasion, Mayor L. N. Raggs will, Mayor Pro-Tem Robert F. Pennington, who also is a past president of the organization, and City Attorney James L. Mayson, will deliver short addresses. New officers will be elected and T. L. Simpson, who has piloted the destinies of the body through its most successful year, will retire.

When the first group was formed 32 years ago, there were only a handful of members. Atlanta was a struggling little town. There were no skyscrapers, no traffic problems and few large business houses. Today the organization membership represents every line of trade in the south's greatest distribution center and the same principles for which the small unpretentious organization stood are paramount.

The most elaborate entertainment program ever arranged by the salesmen will be staged tonight under the direction of E. F. Johnson, chairman of the entertainment committee.

New officers will be elected at a short business session beginning at 6:30 o'clock at the Henry Grady hotel ball room. A dinner will be served at 7, followed immediately by the principal address by Mr. Pennington, who is a member of the association and who will welcome guests. Mayor Raggs will make a short response and Mr. Mayson also will deliver a short address.

Mr. Johnson has warned speakers that all oratory must be reduced to the absolute minimum in order that members, guests and families of members may participate in the dance which is to follow.

Students of the Margaret Moore School of Dancing will offer several feature dances and Miss Betty Anderson also will give several terpsichorean numbers. The Merry-makers' orchestra will furnish music for the dance. Those who do not dance may play bridge as a number of tables have been provided for this pastime.

Farmer, Slayer Chillingly Calm; Goes to Gallows

Amite, La., March 1.—(AP)—With chilling calm, Lige Wall, 56, farmer, died on the gallows of the Parish jail here shortly after noon today for murdering Percy Roberts, 17-year-old Kentwood youth. The calloused, old farmer walked firmly and quietly from his cell to the scaffold, firm in the belief his execution was an act of God. He had told the Rev. C. T. Bowden, pastor of the local Baptist church, that no earthly power could prevent his hanging as he had been called to heaven.

He startled the witnesses by sweeping them with an accusing eye and shouting: "You are hanging an innocent man. But God calls me and it is by time."

Over and over he repeated "Praise God. He has saved my soul."

As the attendants made ready he added: "I am going where Paul lives."

"I am gone," he called as he shot through the trap and to eternity.

While the body swung, the Baptist minister led in prayer, expressing the hope the event might be a blessing to other lives.

Wall was convicted on testimony that he shot the young man to death to prevent his testifying against his son-in-law in an arson case. Later before the Louisiana pardon board, the defense claimed the murder grew out of refusal of Roberts to marry Wall's daughter.

CAPTAIN MITCHELL IS MADE DIRECTOR OF DANN COMPANY

Captain Oley B. Mitchell, who was formerly an attorney in the legal department of the Southern Bell Telephone company, and who has been for the past five years engaged in the general practice of law, as a member of the firm of Mitchell and Reisinger, has been made a member of the board of directors of the T. C. Dann Realty company of this city.

Captain Mitchell has been connected with this company as counsel since its organization three years ago and will continue as such while assuming his new duties as a member of the board.

This announcement was made yesterday by T. C. Dann, president of the company.

HOSPITALITY HERE WARMLY PRAISED BY RECENT VISITOR

Atlanta's hospitality was warmly praised in a letter recently received by The Constitution from Preston E. Reed, of Chicago, executive secretary of the Financial Advertisers association, which meets here next October. Mr. Reed was here during the recent midyear conference of the board of directors, held previous to the departure of the association and received splendid treatment from the people and the press of the city. He added that he and the other directors are looking forward to the meeting of the association in Atlanta.

GEORGIA HEALTH OFFICIALS OFFER AID FOR FLOODED

The state health department is ready to provide as much relief as possible in flood damaged areas of Georgia, according to Dr. Joe P. Bowdoin, deputy health officer. Dr. Bowdoin said the floods will check the department to some extent in its campaign now in progress to eradicate malaria in the state. He said another danger from floods is the pollution of waters and said the department would provide prompt relief for those areas reporting pollution of any kind.

AMERICAN CREAMERY TURNS MERGER DOWN

Americus, Ga., March 1.—(AP)—The Americus Ice Cream company, local manufacturers of ice cream and butter, has declined to enter proposed merger of Georgia creameries as reported two weeks ago from Augusta. L. E. Wilson, local manager, announced today. It was stated on February 15 that local creamery would enter, with other such concerns, the Foran Dairy company, described as $10,000,000 corporation, in which J. C. Penny, the chain store magnate, was interested.

"We have no idea of joining this merger except in our own terms," Manager Wilson, of the Americus company, stated today. "The Augusta announcement was premature so far as we were concerned."

TALMADGE TO APPEAL DECISION ON SALARIES

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, will appeal to the supreme court on a decision rendered Thursday by Judge Eschel Graham, of the Oconee circuit, in which it was held that the commissioner should pay salaries alleged to be due 17 short term fertilizer inspectors. Judge Graham issued a mandamus absolute against the commissioner requiring him to pay these salaries and also salaries due four long term fertilizer inspectors, under a previous decision.

It was pointed out by Commissioner Talmadge that the state legislature at its last session passed a law making it a misdemeanor for a state official to draw a warrant against any fund that is exhausted. This presents a problem to the commissioner. If he abides by the mandamus absolute he will be violating the legislative act, because this fund was exhausted in payments made to other fertilizer inspectors. If he does not issue the warrants he probably would be held in contempt of court. He announced that he will appeal the decision to the supreme court before taking any further action.

Miss Robertson Weds Andrew J. McCoy, Jr., At Home Ceremony

A quiet wedding characterized by dignity and simplicity was that of Miss Marie Robertson and Andrew J. McCoy, Jr., which was solemnized last evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Franklin Robertson, of 213 North Church street, in East Point.

The living room, where the ceremony took place, had an improvised altar with background of palms and ferns interspersed with white and pink roses, and lighted with tapers. The wedding music was played by E. M. Robinson. Lobengrin's wedding march was used as the processional and "The Flower Song" was played softly on the violin during the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. G. P. Venable, pastor of the First Methodist church, in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride's only attendant was her mother, Mrs. Franklin Robertson, who wore an exquisite gown of turquoise georgette over satin of the same color. Her corsage bouquet was of pink roses showered with valley lilies.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white Duchess satin, fashioned along straight lines with uneven hemline, and trimmings of seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her only ornaments were a diamond bar pin and a strand of pearls, gifts from the groom. Her tulle veil was fastened to her auburn hair by a bandeau of orange blossoms and caught at intervals with narrow white satin ribbons. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

After an informal reception, Mr. and Mrs. McCoy left on a trip through Alabama and Florida, and on their return will be at home at 311 West Forrest avenue, in East Point.

Miss Chambers, Mr. Hartrampf Wed at Ceremony at Bolton

The marriage of Miss Ethel Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Chambers, of Bolton, to Carl H. Hartrampf, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hartrampf, of Atlanta, was beautifully solemnized at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the Collins Memorial church in Bolton. The Rev. E. G. Thompson performed the ceremony in the presence of a representative gathering of relatives and friends.

The altar of the church was massively banked in palms and ferns, against which cathedral candelabra interspersed with baskets of Easter lilies stood in but relief. The center aisle was marked at artistic intervals with single cathedral candles, between which stood tall baskets of Easter lilies. Southern smilax entwined the altar rail. Pews reserved for members of the two families were marked by clusters of Easter lilies tied with filmy bows of white chiffon.

Preceding the ceremony a delightful program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Margaret Thompson at the piano, Miss Ruth Davidson, violinist, and Mrs. Virlyn Moore, organist, played several selections and announced the approach of the wedding party with the wedding march from "Lohengrin." Mendelssohn's bridal chorus was used as the recessional.

The Wedding Party.
The groomsmen were Floyd Chambers, of Bolton, brother of the bride-elect, who is a student at the University of Georgia; Gus Hartrampf, Jr., of Charlotte, N. C., brother of the groom-elect; Virlyn Moore, Jr., of Bolton, and Louis C. Chambers, cousin of the bride-elect. Miss Emily Chambers, of Bolton, sister of the bride, who acted as maid of honor, wore a charming sleeveless model of peach colored chiffon fashioned with long waist and graceful skirt, introducing a series of flowers which fell in points forming an uneven hemline. She wore a corsage of pink roses and ferns.

Mrs. Marion Williamson, of Atlanta, the matron of honor, wore a model of Nile green tulle, fashioned with long waist and gracefully scalloped skirt. Her corsage was of rose buds.

The bridesmaids were Misses Catherine Chambers, sister of the bride; Annis Trotter, Lora Kelley, of Bolton, and Johnnie Roberts, of Dalton. They wore becoming dresses of yellow, pale yellow, orchid and pink georgette, respectively, made with sleeveless basque waists and skirts, introducing on the sides large fluffy tulle bows in corresponding shades. Their corsages were of pink roses and ferns.

The Lovely Bride.

The lovely bride, whose natural beauty was enhanced by her wedding robes of white satin entered with her father, F. G. Chambers, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Roy L. Johnson, of Atlanta. Her gown was a becoming long sleeve model. Real lace was introduced in the V-shaped yoke of the bodice, which was caught to the cap of real lace at the back of the head beneath a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a magnificent sheaf of bride roses and valley lilies tied with streamers of white satin ribbon.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Chambers, of Bolton, parents of the bride.

Lovely Costumes.

Mrs. Chambers, mother of the bride, wore a model of tan georgette fashioned with long waist and graceful full skirt, featuring embroidered flounces.

Mrs. G. A. Hartrampf, mother of the groom, was lovely in a model of blue gown.

Following the reception the young couple left for a wedding trip to North and South Carolina. The bride wore a model of tan crepe de chine and a modish coat of tan tweed. Her hat was a becoming model of tan straw. Mr. and Mrs. Hartrampf will make their home on Clifton road, Atlanta.

Social Leaders Anxiously

SEVEN HOSTESSES LEAVE MONDAY

Watch Hoover Cabinet List

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG.

(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Washington, March 1. (AP)—Social leaders of the nation's capital and others close enough to feel the spell of the charmed circle are eagerly and wistfully scanning the announced list of Herbert Hoover's cabinet.

For the new social regime beginning Monday—a reign as real in responsibility and privileges as any political administration—will bring four more or less new faces into the honored places of cabinet ladies; but it will take away five, and probably seven, long-loved hostesses.

There is no necessity for Washington to speculate about the wife of the new secretary of state, Mr. Henry Stimson, of New York, and the Philippines, made her place in the hearts of the capital's elite while Mr. Stimson was President Taft's war secretary.

A senator's wife—Mrs. Bruce, of Maryland—comes to mind with the second name on the list of portfofolios. Mrs. Bruce, who has been in the cabinet since Mr. Hoover's inauguration, will continue in his post, has had no official hostess, nor is he likely to have one during the next four years. But frequently in the past, as Mr. Hoover has at his dinner this week for Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg, he has invited Mrs. Bruce, who is the mother-in-law of his daughter, to preside at his functions. He probably will continue this practice.

With the assumption of the role of hostess for the secretary of war, Mrs. James W. Good, of Iowa, Washington society will have watched her move from her old atmosphere of congressional circles—Mr. Good was chairman of the house appropriations committee in the sixty-sixth and sixty-seventh congress—into that of the cabinet.

Step Upward.
Mrs. William D. Mitchell, wife of the new attorney-general, has before her the simple business of making a graceful step upward—from the position of wife of the solicitor general.

So it is, in a measure, with Mrs. Walter F. Brown. She will go to her place as cabinet lady of the justice department when Mr. Brown becomes postmaster general, from the social post of wife of the assistant secretary of commerce.

At least two other personalities will be surrounded by the glamor of the new: Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, of Massachusetts, who will do the honors for the next secretary of navy; and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, who will come from the university atmosphere of Stanford, in California, to be hostess for the new secretary of the interior.

Mrs. Wilbur will be remembered by those who knew her in the war days of 1917, when Dr. Wilbur was chief of the United States food administration.

On the other side of the social ledger, among the losses, are a group of hostesses whose passing will leave a deeply felt void.

There is Mrs. Harry S. New, wife of the outgoing postmaster general, who has been in the cabinet as long as she is known, to achieve in her own right, distinction worthy of note in who's who. Catherine McLean Wilbur is a writer of some note, and formerly she was an actress.

When Mrs. Kellogg goes to her home in St. Paul, a veteran hostess, graceful and sure in the small and important details, will be lost to official circles.

Mrs. Davis, wife of the present secretary of war, never has been active in society, because of ill health; but she will be missed—particularly by the smaller, closer group of friends who knew her at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Speer Entertain at Club For Phi Delta Theta

Honoring members of the Georgia Beta chapter of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Speer entertained at a dinner-dance Friday evening at the Lake Country club. The affair was one of the most novel and enjoyable of the season.

The ballroom of the club was effectively decorated in blue and white, the fraternity colors. Electric lights were shaded with these colors, and blue and white Phi Delta Theta shields were used in the artistic arrangement of the tables. Individual tables were decorated with vases of carnations. Miniature moving airships were introduced during the dance.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

DANNY SEES THE LAST OF THE STRANGER.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Pity those who strive to gain safety, knowing it is vain.
—DANNY MEADOW MOUSE.

Danny Meadow Mouse had darted back into the opening to his tunnel, then had turned around and now was peeking out. Danny had had a very good reason for darting back. He had had an extremely good reason for darting back. He had seen what the stranger whom he was chasing had not seen. He had seen what appeared to be two shadows—one in the air and the other on the snow—both moving. One really was a shadow. The other was Spooky. The Screech Owl. As Spooky flew above, his shadow seemed to fly along on the snow.

Danny saw him coming and he was a little dismayed. He wondered what he should do now. If that stranger should chase him back, would he, Danny, drive him out again? But the stranger didn't come back. He was halfway there when once more Spooky swooped. This time Spooky flew away and he carried with him the strange Mouse. Yes, sir, he carried with him the strange Mouse. Danny was both sorry and glad. Of course, he was sorry that the stranger was caught. At the same time, he was glad that he was not going to have any further trouble with that stranger.

There was a queer voice just below Danny. It was the voice of Nanny Meadow Mouse. "Has the stranger gone?" squeaked Nanny.

"Yes, my dear," said he, "the stranger has gone."

"Is he likely to come back?" inquired Nanny.

"No," replied Danny, "no, I don't think he'll ever see him again. I think he has gone away for good."

"For good?" asked Nanny.

"For the good of all concerned," replied Danny, "he wouldn't say a word more."

HAD DULL, TIRED FEELING; DIDN'T ENJOY HIS FOOD

ONE of the strongest and healthiest-looking citizens of Pendleton, S. C., is Mr. C. Y. Wilson, who gives the following account of how he obtains relief from an occasional disorder to which many people are subject:

"About five years ago, after suffering with constipation and indigestion, I felt that I had better look after myself for fear I might have more trouble."

"I had a dull, tired feeling. My head would ache, and I didn't seem to enjoy my food."

"Some one told me to try Black-Draught. I began taking it, and it seemed to fit my case. I felt so much better after taking Black-Draught, and now I use it regularly."

"I used to feel most uncomfortable after meals; didn't feel like doing my work. I would have a bad taste in my mouth, but after taking Black-Draught, I could eat almost anything at almost any time and not feel any ill effects. It is a good medicine."

"Black-Draught is a purely vegetable cathartic or laxative medicine, composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots. Black-Draught is finely powdered, which enables the juices of the stomach to extract its medicinal properties in an easy, natural way. It is good for children, grown men and women, and those of advanced age."

In use for over eighty-seven years. Get the genuine "Black-Draught" in the yellow package; 25c and $1. Sold everywhere. J.A. 96

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine at the Change of Life. I would get blue spells and just walk the floor. I was nervous, could not sleep at night, and was not able to do my work. I know if it had not been for your medicine I would have been in bed most of this time and had a big doctor's bill. If women would only take your medicine they would be better."

THE SIXTH SENSE

A Craig Kennedy Mystery Story

BY ARTHUR B. REEVE.

INSTALLMENT VII.

"And you, Mr. Burroughs?"
"Never saw it before."
"Sure?"

"I know nothing about it, and care less," Burroughs was angry at the insistence.

"Have you seen that key before, Mary?" Kennedy held it up so she could see it plainly. "Do you know what it's for?"

Mary looked at it and smiled wistfully. "Sure I do. It's the key to that scuttle to the roof, the only one that locks and unlocks it." She became reminiscent. "Mr. Rudyard used to keep it hanging up there," pointing in the direction over the mantle.

"It isn't so very old. Just a few years ago the squirrels, through the cornice, under the roof, nested there, and became a nuisance, the destructive little pests. Mr. Rudyard wanted to get rid of them, but he couldn't get at them. They were between the roof and the ceiling of the attic. So he had a carpenter, old Mr. Work, come, cut the scuttle door through the ceiling, and he could look up when he went away. Then they were able to get at those destructive squirrels. It was easy to get up there, lock and unlock it."

Kennedy nodded sympathetically. Martha seemed impatient and bored for a moment, then stood up suddenly. "Well, how long are we going to sit here discussing squirrels and keys—and all the time getting farther and farther away from any explanation? That fire's hot, I must have a drink of water."

I started forward, ahead of Cunningham. "No, don't trouble yourself, thank you."

Nevertheless Deering insisted on going with her to the kitchen.

"How would you catch a squirrel, Walter?" asked Rule, irrelevantly.

"Go under a tree and make a noise like a Press reporter!" I retorted, testily.

Martha Deering returned. "Did you get it?" asked Kennedy, casually.

"Yes," Martha was on her dignity. "The wine cellar's dry," she snarled, added Deering, "but the drinking water here is excellent."

"Not frozen up, then?"

"No, not yet," replied Martha breezily, "but it will be if a cold spell follows this storm."

"What's the use of staying here, and talking about the water freezing?" exclaimed Deering, wearily. "I'll run down to town with you, Miss Mix, see that a plumber comes out to shut it off. I'm going to file a story that this case is baffling and tonight looks as if it would go down in criminal history as one of the unsolved mysteries. I'm ready to go. What do you say, fellows?"

Deering turned to Kennedy. "I suppose you'll agree with me, Kennedy, give it up and wait for some real news?"

Craig eyed Deering calmly, very quietly for a minute, never moving from his chair. "Yes, I'll give it up"—he leaned over and knocked the ashes from his pipe into the fire—"because I have solved it!"

"Solved it?" There was a general exclamation from all of us about the fire.

"Yes," He picked up the key, and talking about the water freezing, he said, "Take that. Go upstairs. Open the scuttle door. You'll find your answer to me."

All of us except Kennedy, even the heirs, wasted no time. I grabbed the key, took the steps two at a time. Up the ladder I climbed. There was some difficulty fitting the key. It seemed as if something on the other side had to be pushed out of the lock; just a bolt that had to be opened and closed by the flat key.

I flung open the scuttle door. There in the dead space between the attic ceiling and the roof was the body of Reginald Rudyard, clad in his old hunting coat.

"Facts first, next motives, then clues," Before the fire Kennedy was climbing into his huge ulster. "My first point was that blotter you tossed away in the waste-paper basket."

He was staring at the bent andirons, out of keeping with the other things in the house, yet not replaced. He waved his hands as he glanced out at the hurrying snow. "He hadn't laid in his winter's coal. There were figures on that blotter, many of them, too many to read, all in red ink. You know what red-ink figures mean to an accountant? Losses! Rudyard was a ruined, bankrupt man. I think you are going to find that his ears one after another have been sold or quietly seized, that the house was next to go to his creditors. He had nothing left to live for."

Kennedy turned to me. "My second point Walter was your question, How thick was that file? A file, so thin, was no earthly use for anything but to make a key. You found it, a flat key to that door. The indentations in the key-holes, no such thin of an inch. Then the piece of the old saw, just the thickness of that flat key. But the key was hanging as usual in its place. That was positively a blind."

No one now, of all this smart group, was interrupting the monologue.

"In his accounts, nothing but red figures—losses. No money even to bury him. He had a sentiment about this old house to which he always came back after his wanderings no matter how far they took him. How lies my heart! In death he could not leave it."

"Rudyard contemplated no hunting trip. He was a miser, and he went into God's country to commit suicide. And he had not premeditated suicide, either. The water was not even shut off. The water's coal he could not afford. While the fit was on him, he did it here in the house he loved, with some quick poison, like cyanide, no doubt."

"And he never once moved out of his chair here in this library," exclaimed the little Sun man, eyeing Kennedy.

"It's—it's—unusually! God! Jamison, this man is wonderful! He has a sixth sense!"

Deering, Cunningham, Rule—all of them—were too flabbergasted at the moment even to write or to grab a telephone.

"How thick is an SA file?" I was carefully regarding my own foot question, a fool question only to me. It had started the solution of the Rudyard case. I had not seen the forest for the trees. "Yes," I muttered, "a sixth sense—common sense!"

Maloney Gets Decision Over Heeney; McLarnin Kayoes Glick

Boston Boxer Jabs His Way To Easy Win

New Zealander Battles Gamely, But Futilely, Given But One Round.

Boston, March 1.—(AP)—A left hand jab, the same blow that helped Gene Tunney to retain his title last July, again proved troublesome to Tom Heeney, the New Zealand heavy-weight, and he was decisively out-pointed by Jimmy Maloney, of Boston, here tonight in a bruising 10-round contest at the Boston Garden.

Heeney entered the ring after being inactive eight months and this illness took its toll. He was heavier and more sluggish than he was against Tunney, but he bored in from the first bell to the last, never escaping from the left jabs which Maloney fed him with monotonous regularity.

Eight months ago Heeney was known to fighters as the "hard rock," but tonight Maloney had him softened long before the contest reached the halfway mark. Tom tried vainly to land a hard right-hand punch, the blow he used to knock out Maloney in a single round 18 months ago and he missed most of the attempts.

He was swinging his rights much too late and Maloney was always quick enough to find him with a left jab and oft-times, a hard left hook. Times stinging punches cut Heeney's face and he was bleeding from a dozen facial cuts at the end, which found his opponent unmarked and fairly strong.

The score card showed that Maloney won eight rounds, Heeney one, the second, and one session, the third, was even.

Heeney appeared much slower against Maloney than he did against the skillful Tunney and Jim has never pretended to be much of a boxer. Tom was heavier than he was last July and the extra poundage became a great load during the final rounds.

During the last three rounds, Heeney tried desperately to put over a decisive punch, taking plenty of punishment as he worked in close.

The battle drew 19,500 spectators, the Garden's capacity, and the gate receipts were close to $32,000.

Jimmy Byrne, Louisville heavy-weight, supplied the only knockout of the night when he disposed of the huge Bunker Hill, of Atlanta, in the second round of an eight-round semi-final.

Homer Robinson, Cambridge negro, defeated Ray Still, of Kansas City.

Spurt by Steinway Wins Pinehurst Race

Pinehurst, N. C., March 1.—(AP)—A spurt down the home stretch won for Denis Bauer's gelding, Steinway, the feature event of the seventh race meeting of the season at the Pinehurst Jockey club today.

Steinway broke the tape less than half a length in front of Gallano, another entry from the Bauer stables in New Orleans.

Broad Silk, owned by Miss June Nightingale, won the five and one-half furlong event and Herman Tyson's Packer Ritts and the Judge took the harness races.

JIMMY WEST, ATLANTA, WINS MIAMI FINALS

Miami, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—A Dixie golf today assumed the crown of champion in the annual Dixie amateur tournament here after one of the most sensational upsets in Miami's 1928-29 golfing season.

Jimmy West, Atlanta amateur, swamped George O'Connor, Southampton, L. I., by a 8-7 score in today's 36-hole final match of the tournament.

O'Connor, medalist in the tourney, and the exhibitor of a brilliant brand of golf through the semi-finals, lost the championship crown in the morning round at the Miami Country club, when at the end of the 18 holes, he was seven holes behind the Georgia player.

West turned in a medal score of 74 for the morning round against O'Connor's 81, both of them scoring 37s for the afternoon trip in the afternoon.

O'Connor finished the trip from the clubhouse in the last round down but lost the first two holes of the home-away journey.

Ben Stevenson, of Chicago, defending champion in this year's tourney, was eliminated in the quarter-finals in his match with O'Connor.

Title Demanded For Sharkey

Philadelphia, March 1.—(United News)—The Pennsylvania state athletic commission today received a letter from Johnny Buckley, Jack Sharkey's manager, asking that body to recognize the Bostonian as world's heavyweight boxing champion.

Chairman Frank Weiner said that in his opinion the Sharkey-Stribling fight was not of a championship nature.

Sheppard Homans Wins Tournament

Pinehurst, N. C., March 1.—(AP)—Sheppard Homans, of Englewood, N. J., today won the ninth annual seniors' golf tournament by defeating C. E. Sherman, of Essex county, New Jersey, 2 up in the finals.

Homans scored an 88 and Sherman an 89.

MIAMI, HAVANA OUT OF LEAGUE FOR THIS YEAR

Tampa, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Havana, Cuba, and Miami, Fla., will not be represented by clubs in the Southeastern league this season, but the circuit will be composed of six clubs, it was announced today by Major P. S. Murphy, in charge of negotiations.

Mr. Murphy, business manager for the Tampa club, returned from the Cuban capital today and reported that although the plan for an eight-club league to include Havana and Miami, received unlimited support from city and government officials, sportsmen and newspapers, lack of a suitable playing field had caused a postponement of the Cuban entry at least until next year.

Failure to place a franchise in Havana necessitated the elimination of Miami, it was said.

It was reported here that President Cliff Green, of the Southeastern league, has received no official notification of the decision of baseball interests at Havana, Cuba, and Miami, Fla., not to enter clubs in the league this season as was carried in a dispatch from Tampa, Fla., today.

Pending a report from Major J. S. Murphy, official representative of the league in negotiations with the two cities, the league president stated that there is yet a possibility that the Southeastern league will be an eight-club circuit this season. He indicated that "other cities" are being considered for berths in the league. The Southeastern is now composed of six clubs.

Several schedules have been drawn for the 1929 season, he said, but are being held in abeyance until the personnel of the league is definitely ascertained.

Court To Decide On Tunney Suit

New York, March 1.—(United News)—Decision of the supreme court on the plea of Timothy J. Mara, sports promoter, to sue Gene Tunney for a sum greater than $26,250, is expected before March 15.

Mara previously sued Tunney for that sum as his share of the retired champion's earnings in the fight with Jack Dempsey in Philadelphia in 1926. He told the court Thursday, in applying for permission to raise a sum sought, that he had a contract with Tunney to collect 10 per cent from that fight and 25 per cent from all fights thereafter.

He now seeks $405,000 as the original $26,250 and a fourth of Tunney's earnings since the Philadelphia fight. The application will be argued next Tuesday with the trial 10 days later.

Philadelphians Beat New York Women

Palm Beach, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Miss Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia, and Miss Dorothy Andrus, of the same city, defeated Mrs. R. F. Stenz, New York, and Mrs. L. G. Morris, New York, 6-4, 7-5, in the first match of the semi-final round of doubles play in the Florida women's tennis championships today.

Miss Goss was on top at all times. Miss Cottman, noted exponent of the chop stroke, was unable to assume a single threatening position.

A great gallery of socially prominent from the winter resorts witnessed the play.

Helen Hicks To Play Miss Van Wie Today

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 1.—(United News)—Miss Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, L. I., and Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, will oppose each other again tomorrow in the finals of the south Atlantic golf championship tournament.

Miss Hicks had the hardest match of her Florida campaign today when she defeated Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, on the nineteenth green. Miss Van Wie won an easy victory over Miss Lillian Holland, New York, 4 and 3.

Today's semi-final winners are expected to stage a repetition of the duel which marked their play in the recent Palm Beach tourney, which resulted in victory for Miss Hicks.

Ray Barbuti Denies Charge Against A. A. U.

Suspended Track Star Replies to Union's Action by Refuting Story.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, March 1.—Ray Barbuti, the man who ran his heart out to win the only flat race the United States won at Amsterdam in a letter to the United News today replied to the A. A. U.'s suspension of him as a result of statements attributed to him in a New York newspaper.

The Olympic 400-meter champion said he did not fear the suspension placed on him because he was replying only because he had been taught and always followed the principles of good sportsmanship.

Stories are Refuted.
In a letter addressed to John J. Deignan, chairman of the registration committee of the metropolitan association of the A. A. U., Barbuti stated that he did not say:

"I'm through with that gang of fourflushers forever," or "I and other athletes have been lining the pockets of the A. A. U." and its affiliated clubs for years."

These two statements and others were attributed to Barbuti in a New York newspaper, and it was on the strength of them that the metropolitan body suspended him "until such time as you prove or retract these statements."

"I did say and I repeat now," Barbuti's letter read, "that it was unfair for the A. A. U. to place me under suspension for non-appearance in the New York A. A. U. house when I never signed an entry blank."

"I did say, and I repeat now, that certain athletes received more than their expenses, and that this is known to certain A. A. U. officials. I'm not a talebearer, and will make no affidavits involving anyone else in trouble. The A. A. U. should be well able to investigate and impose on me my time from business, which I am striving to build up less than a year out of college."

Ray is Annoyed.
"I did say, and I repeat, that the A. A. U. and its clubs do not get my business for me, and I am annoyed, and I am now, because of the trouble and inconvenience imposed on me to come to the A. A. U. headquarters to be investigated when entirely innocent of any wrongdoing."

Barbuti said he resented the fact that the A. A. U. suspended him without taking the statements attributed to him were true.

"If some of the A. A. U. crowd could have gone to the trouble to pick up a telephone and ask me if the stuff attributed to me were true," his letter to the United News said, "I could have answered in three minutes, and I don't think there would have been any suspension nor all this unfavorable publicity."

"But, instead of a simple telephone call, one of the A. A. U. crowd, who was pretty much of a bore on the Olympic trip, wants to be a big shot, and have a lot of us fellows jump on his back and call I don't intend to do it."

Despite Barbuti's announcement that he was through running, he had planned to enter in an exhibition race at the Syracuse interscholastic meet tonight.

At the offices of the A. A. U. it was said that Barbuti's letter had been received and that no official statement could be made.

Van Ryn, Feuer Reach Semi-Finals

Miami Beach, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., and Gus Feuer, Miami net star, advanced today to the singles semi-finals of the Miami Beach tennis tournament.

Van Ryn defeated Carroll Turner, Miami, 6-2, 6-3, today, and will meet Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., tomorrow. Feuer, with his defeat today of Val Gress, Forest Hills, L. I., established his right to play John Hennessey, Indianapolis, in the semi-finals. Tomorrow's matches will be for the best three out of five sets, instead of the previous two out of three.

Hunter and Van Ryn, playing in semi-finals of the doubles today, defeated Carroll Turner and Gus Feuer, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5, under the three sets out of five schedule.

Hennessey and Fritz Mercier, Bethlehem, Pa., won their postponed match with Robert Gifford, New York, and Eric Howell, Bethlehem, Pa., and then defeated John Miller, Philadelphia, and Val Gress 7-5, 6-4, 6-3. Final matches in the doubles will be played Sunday.

Pladner Is Favorite To Win Over Genaro

Paris, March 1.—(United News)—Emil (Spider) Pladner, of France, European flyweight champion, is a 7-to-5 favorite to defeat Franke Genaro, New York Italian, recognized by the National Boxing association as world's flyweight champion, in their match here tomorrow night.

The match is advertised for the world's flyweight championship.

Both fighters rested today after final workouts yesterday, in which Genaro boxed four rounds and Pladner two.

Corporal Izzy Schwartz is recognized as world's flyweight champion by the New York state athletic commission. Pladner recently defeated Schwartz in Paris in a non-title match.

Frank Hunter, Johnny Hennessey and John Van Ryn, who are now playing in Florida, all believe the next destination of the Davis Cup will be settled by the decision of Rene Lacoste—to play or not to play. There is a big likelihood that Lacoste won't be able to get away from work to give enough time to practice and play, and the three stars mentioned all believe that if Lacoste is missing from the French roll call there will be at least an even chance to lug the trophy back home again.

Cochet and Lacoste still carry too many guns to be checked. But Cochet working with Borotra and Brugnon and some one else will be a simpler proposition—not a push-over, but at least a much weaker combination than the famous pair who have been on top for the last two years.

From a combination of Tilden, Hunter, Van Ryn, Lott and Hennessey the United States can pick a strong team, a team capable of putting on hard pressure in both singles and doubles. Even if Tilden decides not to play, there will be enough strength left to force the French to the limit, if Lacoste is missing. But there is no team around good enough to head off the old pair who are still on top of the tennis peak.

They are what Bill Tilden and Bill Johnson used to be—and the two Bills used to be enough, with a club that has Hornsby, Hank Wilson, Cuyler, Stephenson and Hartnett coming up backed up with good pitching. Unless McCarthy has one of those stars crippled, he should win by five or six games, in spite of the strength of the Giants, Pirates and Cardinals. Joe is a great manager, one of the best that baseball ever had, and he will have his bunch hustling again, as they always have hustled. I'm picking the Cubs to meet the Athletics in the fall, and most of the oldtime ball players I know figure it the same way.

The Cubs are almost even money against the filed. Hornsby will plug that gap at second and add a lot of having streak and a club that has Hornsby, Hank Wilson, Cuyler, Stephenson and Hartnett coming up backed up with good pitching. Unless McCarthy has one of those stars crippled, he should win by five or six games, in spite of the strength of the Giants, Pirates and Cardinals. Cool and confident. Glick came out of his corner for the first round, determined to gain revenge for two decision victories McLarnin holds over him. The round was over before McLarnin slashed Glick cleanly on the chin with a left hook. Still smiling, although he was badly hurt, Glick covered up. But he could not protect himself from the storm of lefts and rights the Los Angeles puncher threw his way.

The first punch of the second round, another hook from McLarnin's left, staggered Glick. Another one to the chin sent him to the floor for the count of nine. As he rose, McLarnin tore into him and drove him to a corner where another left hook floored the New Yorker.

Glick staggered again at the count of nine only to run into another two-fisted barrage that drove him close to McLarnin's corner. Then a straight right landed Glick on his chin and floored him for the third time.

Glick, a bloody spectacle, half rose only to fall flat on his back just as the count reached ten and the fight was over.

It was a sensational victory for McLarnin despite the fact that he out-weighted Glick by nearly four pounds. Glick, especially in the last two years, has met and beaten almost all of his lightweight rivals.

Appel Is Defeated In Tennis Meet

Ithaca, N. Y., March 1.—(AP)—Kenneth Appel, of Princeton, one of the seeded stars in the indoor inter-collegiate tennis tournament here, was eliminated today by T. D. McDonald, of Dartmouth, 6-2, 1-6, 7-5. Appel was forced to fight it out with Julius Seligson, of Lehigh, the defending champion, in the final for the Larned cup.

The three other seeded players, Seligson, Gabriel Lavine, of Pennsylvania, and Harry F. Wolf, of Williams, came through to the semi-final round. In tomorrow's matches, Lavine will meet Seligson and Wolf will play McDonald.

Lehigh and Williams, each with a semi-finalist in both singles and doubles, led in the point scoring for the team trophy. They scored nine points each.

Segrave to Change Propeller in Boat

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—After whizzing over the water in Miss England at a 78-mile-per-hour clip this afternoon, Major H. O. D. Segrave said he would put a larger propeller in the craft before setting out at Miami to try for the world's water speed mark.

Segrave declared that he felt the full strength of the mighty motor in the boat was not being utilized by the present propeller. Today's test was not made at maximum speed, but the Englishman believed he would have a chance soon to determine if the boat will attain its theoretical speed.

The Golden Arrow, Segrave's racing car in which he hopes to shatter the world's land speed record, stood in a garage today. Likewise the Triplex, J. W. White's huge, record-holding car, was untouched. Segrave planned to take out the Golden Arrow for a trial on Sunday, but White said he will not test the Triplex before Wednesday, when a triple timing outfit will have been installed.

The best spoon shot I ever saw was made by Bobby Cruikshank, who is now playing superb golf last year. John was playing superb golf, but so were several others in the field, particularly Bobby Cruikshank.

Farrrell needed a pair of fours to win, or a five and a four to tie. He had a good, long shot to a well-trapped green on the seventeenth hole, failed to hold the green he might conceivably land in the sand, and lose a stroke or more. But he took the chance and played a bold and beautiful spoon shot right to the carpet.

Perfection Required.
Holding a shot like that requires perfection. Farrrell made the shot exactly right and got the necessary follow-through. He added another four on the home hole to get a 63—one of the finest rounds ever made anywhere—and to beat out Cruikshank, who was coming like a house on fire.

Yes, sir, the spoon is a great club. It is one of the handiest ever made, though the opportunities afforded for its use are not nearly as numerous as the mashie and iron get.

Virginia Swimmers Beat Duke Tankmen

Charlottesville, Va., March 1.—(AP)—University of Virginia swimmers this afternoon defeated Duke university's tank team, 39 to 21, in the final meet for the Cavaliers, who have been defeated but once this season.

The Cavaliers started their campaign by taking the relay race, and followed up with first places in three events. Ezechard, Duke, lowered the University of Virginia pool record for the 200-yard breast-stroke, making the distance in 2:52.4-5.

Rudi Wagner, Germany, Knocks Out Argentine

Berlin, March 1.—(United News)—Rudi Wagner, German heavyweight, knocked out the Argentine heavyweight, Islas, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout tonight.

Wagner, called Germany's hardest hitter, hooked a left to the liver, followed by a right jab to the heart which floored Islas for the count.

Tech Loses to Clemson in First Round of Tournament

Jackets Bow 30-26; Tarheel Quintet Wins

Generals Fail To Show Form; Duke Beats Alabama; Wolf-pack Trips Tennessee.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

The first day of play—stomping, exciting and tempestuous—the southern conference basketball which opened Friday is history. A favored team has tumbled, other favored ones have given backers additional hope but one thing stands out. It is doubtful if the auditorium, which has embraced within its grand opera, prize fights, automobile shows, wrestling matches, musical conventions and concerts, has ever witnessed anything as exciting or interesting as this first day of play.

The scores were: Clemson 30; Tech 26. Georgia 42; Auburn 24. University of North Carolina 43; Mississippi Aggies 18. L. S. U. 22. Ole Miss 37; Maryland 35. N. C. State 48; Tennessee 32. Duke 24; Tulane 15.

And the best was saved for the last. Small, but fighting, Clemson came over from South Carolina and in the last game of the night took the measure of Tech's Tarheels in a bitter and hard fought game that the first day brought out.

Tech Off Form. Tech was slightly off form, but don't let that discount the victory of Josh Cody's game little team. Those Tigers fought just like the animal whose name they bear. Tech got off in the lead and held it until the latter part of the game with Thomas, plucky little forward, leading the way. Marce, on defense, and Williamson, on offense, did the best and most consistent work for Tech.

That game followed one which caused nearly everyone at the tournament—and there was a good crowd there for the first night—to agree on the winner of the tournament. That was the University of North Carolina-Mississippi A. and M. game, in which the Carolinians won by a score of 43 to 18. The Tarheels worked smoothly, quickly and effectively. They were at their best in the first half when they scored 30 points against nine for the Aggies. All of the Tarheels made shots and they are easily the most dangerous team in the tournament if they keep their present stride and it seems likely that they will.

In the other night game of the first round Georgia easily took Auburn for a ride in the country, the score being 42 to 24. Georgia was working with seemingly effortless precision that it had Saturday night, when it defeated Tech, and though it has a tough game tonight in Kentucky, it should get by and will be a dangerous foe for some of the favorites.

Generals Show Poorly. Washington and Bang that make the great flash and bang that everyone had looked for in trimming L. S. U. by 22 to 22. But the Generals showed that they aren't through yet. They're going to be tough for somebody.

Ole Miss, champion last year, had a close call in its opener with Maryland, but won out by a 37-to-35 score.

The Phillips twins, Cary and Ary, are not playing with the brilliance of last year, but they are plugging along while Mabry, new center, and Selby are proving mainstays with their good work.

Alabama threw a scare into the Millionaire Baby of Duke by playing it on even terms from start to finish of its game. Duke kept plugging along, though, and came out ahead by 38-32. Kentucky and Tulane fought it out in a tight defensive battle with Kentucky's weird submarine pass, triumphing over the doggedly fighting Tulane Greenies. The score was 29 to 15. Earl Combs, of Kentucky, running wild in the last half to send his team far ahead. Tennessee and North Carolina State tangled in a good game which the starters won mainly through the consistent scoring of their lanky center, Goodwin, who scored 21 points, 18 of them in the second half. The final score was 48 to 32.

Ole Miss, which came riding out of the west last year to take the entire conference by surprise and win the tournament, moved off promptly at 1 o'clock with the Old Liners of Maryland.

Maryland was becomingly attired in knee-pants, seldom seen in these modern days. Mabry, only newcomer on the Ole Miss squad, secured the first points when he hooped a couple of field goals in succession. Maryland's big rangy team, by means of a couple of foul goals and four points from the field, took the lead but the lads from Oxford, with Selby ringing four free shots out of as many tries to lead the way, stepped ahead to a quiet convincing lead.

The boys from Oxford kept their lead by coasting along smoothly and conserving all the energy possible. Mabry, center, and Selby were the big guns on the offense with Mabry doing plenty of work in a defensive way. Maryland was forced to resort to the medium of long shots for its points, being unable to penetrate the Ole Miss defense successfully and thus, at half time, the score was 24-14, Ole Miss.

The second half was one of those things that you like to refer to over the highballs as fast and furious. Radice and Allen, Maryland, began getting hot on their long shots and decreasing the lead. The Ole Miss scoring guns were partially spiked and finally in the closing minutes Maryland pulled up to within two points of Mississippi, 34-32. Then Laird dropped one for the chumps. Maryland fought the harder but little Ary Phillips was taking 'em off the backboard in keeping his team ahead. Then Maryland got a foul and Evans poked one in and Maryland was only one point behind. Cary counted on a foul goal and Ole Miss led by 37-35 as the final gun sounded.

Kentucky and Tulane. Next on the court were the teams of Kentucky and Tulane, who immediately proceeded with a basketball game that was not at all interesting to the fans assembled, who always like to see plenty of scoring. Kentucky uses a weird sort of dribbling pass that keeps the ball almost rolling on the floor and Tulane had trouble with it. Both the teams had trouble getting through the other, shots at the basket were wild and hurried with a whole lot of misses. The score during the first half was tight as you'll get on this new Georgia center, who scored 11-9.

The second half was a great improvement over the first with Combs, Kentucky forward, beginning to connect on his shots at the basket and making 10 points in the half, which put his team far and away in the lead to give the Wildcats their 29-15 victory. Then, too, the Tulane defense began crumpling and after the first seven or eight minutes Kentucky had things just about its own way although Roberts, Ford and Savoy fought hard for Tulane. Kentucky went into the lead right after the beginning of the second half and held it all the way.

L. S. U. Nosed Out. Third on the afternoon's bill were the famed Generals of Washington and Lee, backed by many of us to win this fearful tournament, and the Bayou Tiger from Louisiana State University.

The Generals, as all generals supposedly do, took command of things at the start before L. S. U. was even breathing hard. W-L, led six boys scored by Lowry, Hanna and Cox in the order named. The boys from Lexington were working smoothly and their defense for the first few minutes was impenetrable. The first half brought out the fact that Washington and Lee might not be the holy terror that everyone had said. After its first flash in the first few minutes, L. S. U. began breaking through that defense and creeping up, led by Garson and Garahan. Williams, W-L center, helped his team along by expert handling of the ball, but the boys were missing lots of shots. The half ended with W-L ahead by 17-12. L. S. U. showed steam plenty at the beginning of the first half and slowly but surely began to cut down the Generals' lead. Garahan, Louisiana center, was breaking up W-L scoring plays and causing the Lexingtonians to miss many crisp shots. L. S. U. crept to within one point, 17-16, then Garahan went out on fouls and W-L began to go ahead, making its shots more effective.

The Tigers kept plugging away and stayed fairly close on the Generals' heels but Williams, the tall center from Lexington, who handles the ball like a magician palming playing cards, kept his side comfortably ahead. With Cox dropping the ball for points, Washington and Lee progressed steadily and led by 32-22 as the game ended. L. S. U. put up the hardest of a fight but the Generals had too much for them.

The Wolves, clad in violent red jerseys, and the Vols, in pale orange affairs, started off in a ding-dong hammering sort of game. Goodwin, State's star center, was coasting and muzzled by the Vols, but Young and Johnson kept things going and jumped off to a lead. At 9 Tennessee started scoring and Dodd and Faust brought the lads up to within 2 points of State, 15-13. Here State began pulling away, working its game smooth offense, had the lead by 22-15 at the half.

Tennessee, in the second half, was completely out of its mind. Goodwin, the Wolf center, went crazy on the matter of shooting goals and kept piling up points until he made 18 in the second half. He made that despite the fact that he was taken out some seven minutes before the game was over.

Duke's Millionaire Baby and Alabama ended up the afternoon round. The game began with Alabama, seemingly right on top, hopping off to a lead of four points, while the Blue Devils wandered aimlessly up and down the court.

The Crimson kept adding to its lead and at the half was ahead by 17 to 12. Campbell, forward, and Hood, lanky, rangy Alabama center, were doing the shooting for their side and ran the score up to 9-1 before Duke got started. Counselor, Duke's fast forward, was injected into the game, and then Duke began improving a bit, but at the half Alabama was still ahead and going strong.

Georgia Wins. Starting off the night session, at which a considerable crowd in attendance was noted, Georgia took on an ancient and honorable rival, Auburn. Last year the Tiger of the Plains was the first team to be feared and respected team in the tournament and went to the finals before being eliminated by Ole Miss, the champions of this year, however, Auburn has had a very much improved team and the Georgians went right ahead with the business of making points and had the score 7-2 before echoes of the opening whistle's blast had died away.

And the Bulldogs kept it up from that point on. The Red and Black machine was moving most smoothly with precision and headed by Palmer and Harris, the Athenians kept the points rolling in. Auburn was trying hard but couldn't get into the superior Georgia team and half time Georgia was convincingly ahead by 20 to 8.

The second half was an exact repetition of the first with Georgia keeping up its good work. Palmer continued to make his points, while DuBoise, Auburn's forward, was doing the best work for his team, getting a majority of the points with a total of 12. The final score was 42-24.

Fans Impressed. The fans were much impressed by the smoothness of Georgia attack and the toughness of its defense. Although Auburn hasn't the best team in the world, it recently held Georgia to a very close margin of victory. But the Bulldogs seem a vastly improved team nowadays and if it gets past Kentucky today, there's going to be what is commonly known as hell to pay when the Bulldogs get started.

North Carolina's Tarheels were next, playing the Mississippi Aggies in next to the last game. In just about two seconds after the first thing started these Tarheels had everyone in the auditorium dizzy. We are told that several people passed out from their excitement, because the Tarheels are that dizzy. They worked smoothly and noiselessly like an electric dynamo, with just as much power and effect. Before the first half was over North Carolina had 30 points with young Rufus Hackney and Satterfield doing most of the scoring. It was hard to discern whether or not Mississippi had a good team because Mississippi very rarely got hold of the ball, due to the passing of the Carolinians who kept the ball always under their own basket.

Azzies Score Seldom. The Aggies were able to score nine points during the first half, due in the main to the work of Hais, who shot eight of them. The Tarheels continued their dizzy pace and the half ended, 30 to 9.

The second half it wasn't quite so scintillating. The Tarheels slowed just the least bit while the Aggies were noticeably improved on their defense and even had something like an offense, managing to add a bit to their score.

For the first part of the second half the Aggies outscored their rivals, but best Hackney and Brown. Hackney through to start the Tarheels off again

Second Round Today To See Hard Contests

Clemson Meets Wolfpack; Generals Tackle Mississippi; Georgia Plays Kentucky.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Following a stormy first round, eight surviving teams in the conference's annual battle of the pine floor take off this afternoon in the second round. There were enough exciting games yesterday but if you are subject to nervous prostration it would be a splendid idea to go anywhere but the auditorium this afternoon and tonight.

Here is the schedule: 2:30 p. m.—C. S. State vs. Clemson. 4:30 p. m.—Washington & Lee vs. Ole Miss. 8:30 p. m.—North Carolina vs. Duke.

9:30 p. m.—Georgia vs. Kentucky. Read that over again and see if you can pick a winner. We'd just like to see you do it. Tech lost to Clemson last night but Clemson and now that the Tigers have won their first tournament game there's no telling where they'll stop and they would as leave Clemson, N. C. State, to go anywhere but the auditorium this afternoon and tonight.

It's impossible to pick an outstanding player for the four last games today but we imagine that the Georgia-Kentucky game is going to be one of those affairs usually called exciting.

Kentucky has a funny, weird attack known as the submarine pass while Georgia uses the orthodox method with effectiveness that you seldom see. Washington and Lee played well yesterday and sent his team far ahead of Tulane, will find it hard to get through the Georgia defense centering around Anderson and Martin. While the shots of Palmer and Harris will be hard for Kentucky to stop.

Then, last night, the Tarheels showed everyone that they were in their stride and that there was great likelihood of a fifth conference title finding its way to the trophy room. That's what the Tarheels and Satterfield, the midge forwards who seem to can't miss the basket, and Brown and Harper, defensive aces, will give Counselor and Werber, of Duke, plenty to worry about in their tonight.

Generals-Mississippi. And there's that Washington & Lee-Ole Miss battle. Ole Miss had a close call last night but the coasting along with Maryland. The boys will be forced to open against the Generals, however. The latter team scored eight points in the first half and it is supposed to win this tournament and if it can forget that, may accomplish its end.

The Georgia game will be just about the best you could wish to see in any one day and the winner is just as doubtful as it was before this tournament ever started.

12 Teams Will Play In Eighth District

Lavonia, Ga., March 1.—(Special.) Twelve teams are ready for the whistle in the eighth district basketball tournament which is to get under way 12 o'clock today.

Twelve teams are ready for the whistle in the eighth district basketball tournament which is to get under way 12 o'clock today. The title was won last year by Athens. Madison and Logansville play the second game of the tournament Friday morning. Eaton and Kinston meet in the afternoon, followed by Bowman and Athens. Washington and Winterville drew byes but will meet Friday afternoon. Hartwell and Carneysville also drew byes and they will clash at 8:30 Friday evening in what promises to be one of the best games of the entire tourney. Kelly, of Hartwell, has been chosen to act as referee.

Louisiana Champions To Receive First Bid

Chicago, March 1.—(AP)—Louisiana's State champions will receive the first bid to the University of Chicago's eleventh national interscholastic basketball tournament, which will be played April 2 to 5, inclusive. The Louisiana championship will be decided Saturday night.

With their defensive attack the passing centering around a great huge youngster, Jesse Harper, who stands something like six feet four and is built proportionately.

The Tarheels always kept comfortably ahead and closed out with several substitutes in the game and the final score, 42-18.

Tech and Clemson moved out for the last game, before a crowd that comfortably filled the auditorium. It was a great turnout for the first night.

Sid Goldin, Tech's valuable guard, was seated on the bench attired in civilian clothes and navigating with the use of a cane.

Clemson went about its work in a determined manner and for the greater part of the first half it was the Tarheels and by means of capable guarding kept the score down. Tech took a few minutes to find itself and solve the Clemson defense and then began to pull away to a slight lead.

Someone poked Heke in the mouth and caused his retirement after about 10 minutes of play and Red Williamson was injected into the game. He started these Tarheels had everyone in the auditorium dizzy. We are told that several people passed out from their excitement, because the Tarheels are that dizzy.

They worked smoothly and noiselessly like an electric dynamo, with just as much power and effect. Before the first half was over North Carolina had 30 points with young Rufus Hackney and Satterfield doing most of the scoring. It was hard to discern whether or not Mississippi had a good team because Mississippi very rarely got hold of the ball, due to the passing of the Carolinians who kept the ball always under their own basket.

Last Of Major League Squads Set Up Training Camps

Sox Players Reach Dallas, Open Work

Indians at New Orleans; Absentees Dwindle in Ranks of Other Baseball Clubs.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Spring training camps became more numerous and the role of absentees dwindled today, as great, near-great and hopeful flocked southward to prepare for the two major baseball pennant races. In some camps the ill baseball players are met with in first workouts appeared, with injury lists showing up.

Lena Blackburn and 14 of his Chicago Americans arrived at Dallas and just no time in beginning activities. The Chicago took a short workout this afternoon in the Dallas steel stadium and will settle into the training grind tomorrow, as other members of the clan head for the sunny southland.

Indians Reach Camp.

The same program was followed by the batters of the Cleveland Indians, advance guard of the squad, at New Orleans, soon after arrival, pep games and easy warmups were indulged in by Luke Sewell, catcher, and Farrell, Harden, Miller and Underhill and eight other pitchers composing the squad.

John McGraw's New York Giant squad welcomed Andy Cohen, second baseman; Jimmy Walsh and Fred Leach to camp at San Antonio. The arrival of this trio left only Bill Terry, first baseman, and Eddie Houch, outfielder, marked absent. Despite chilly weather the Giants worked out in the morning, then the regulars and the youngsters battled through a practice game in the afternoon.

Shores Arrives.

Connie Mack's worries over his absentees, if he has any, were reduced with the arrival of William Shores, young pitcher of Law, Texas, at the Philadelphia American training camp. Shores quickly denied he was a holdout. Mack's roll had only two absentees, George Earnshaw, big pitcher, who is at Hot Springs, Ark., taking a course of hot baths, and Max Bishop, second baseman, who is sitting idly in his Baltimore home. The Athletics' casualty list today included Sammy Hale, with a bad foot; Ossie Orwell, a bruised foot, and Al Simmons, who was hit on the thumb with a pitched ball.

Pete Donohue, Ray Kulp and "Red" Lucas, Cincinnati pitchers, took turns at tossing them over a batting practice in the Reds' Oriole, Fla., camp today, and later the hitters were given a look at southpaw pitching with Roy Meeker on the firing line.

Collins Is Missing.

Braves in Winter Training

lines being numbered missing when every man in camp, including Alvin Crowder and Johnny Ogdin, who checked in late yesterday at West Palm Beach, Fla., was put to work today. Phil Ball, president of the St. Louis American league entry, wired he would arrive Monday with the remainder of the squad following a day behind him.

The St. Louis Cardinals got a shock today when Manager Billy Southworth increased by half an hour the already strenuous seasoning program. The National League champions pry the lid off the Grapefruit league next Thursday in a game with Connie Mack's Athletics in the Cardinal camp at Avon Park, Gus Mancuso, unaccounted for hitherto, wired from Houston he was on his way, and Herman Bell, listed as a holdout, is en route.

The Card roster was increased with the arrival of J. Murphy, George Hooper and Paul Follard, rookie hurlers. The Cardinals are now in the thick of their winter training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla. Left to right: Hank Gowdy, who has returned to the Braves after five years' absence; Emil Fuchs, president and manager, and Johnny Evers.

Collins Is Missing.

Garden Heads To Offer Jack New York Post

Offer for Giants Will Also Be Decided Upon at Meeting Next Tuesday.

BY ALAN J. GOULD.

Associated Press Sports Editor. Miami Beach, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—To decide on at least two major matters, the selection of a permanent successor to Tex Rickard as president and manager, and whether to push an offer for the purchase of the New York Giants, including the Polo grounds, the directors of the Madison Square Garden corporation expect to meet next Tuesday in New York.

At the same time, while no official information on the subject is available, it is the belief of the Garden directors will consider how and on what terms Jack Dempsey may be persuaded to cast his lot as a business man and fight promoter with the corporation. These officials—and they comprise the holders of majority Garden stock—who have seen Dempsey's influence make the Stirling-Sharkey bout an unexpected success, are anxious to ally the former champion with them. They probably will make him an attractive offer.

Dempsey himself is also non-committal. But he is, of course, ready to listen to inducements, along with those of his friends, such as places as Detroit, Los Angeles and Havana. As a matter of fact, Dempsey will go first to Detroit after leaving Miami Beach, for the express purpose of discussing the possibilities of allying himself with promoting projects there. Several of his friends, among them George F. Gelz, Chicago millionaire associated with Tex Rickard in the promotion of the second Dempsey-Tunney fight, have persuaded Dempsey to look into the Detroit situation.

All these circumstances strengthen the prospect that Dempsey will not enter the ring as a fighter again, but he is not ready to say definitely as to that. The one thing certain is that if he fights again at all it will be under the auspices of the Garden corporation.

William F. Carey, vice president of the corporation, who handled the business of the Stirling-Sharkey promotion, is the choice of the directors for Rickard's post, it is understood, providing he can be prevailed on to accept it.

Carey Also Quiet.

Carey has declined to commit himself definitely but the enthusiasm with which he took hold of the venture here, plus the fact that he yesterday signed a five-year agreement with the city of Miami for winter fights here, may indicate he is in a receptive mood. At the present time, Colonel John S. Hammond is acting general manager, under an appointment made shortly after Rickard's death, but Carey has actually handled the reins. Jack Dempsey's connection in a business way with the corporation has been so far so good, so far as Dempsey is concerned, the only positive fact is that he will fight exclusively for the Garden organization if he fights at all.

Purchase of Giants. Negotiations for the purchase of the Giants, chiefly for the purpose of getting the Polo grounds as an outdoor arena, were disclosed here a week ago, when it was reported that McGraw, manager and part owner of the Giants, and Carey, it was understood the offer involved $4,000,000 for nearly 75 per cent of the stock held by McGraw, Charles A. Stoneham, the club president, and Francis X. McQuade. Subsequently Stoneham denied the report, saying he had no intention of selling out but it appears likely negotiations will be resumed next week.

Scrubs Win Again AT SAN ANTONIO.

San Antonio, Texas, March 1.—(United News.)—The scrubs won another six-inning game here today with the regulars by a score of 5 to 2. The regular lineup included only one substitute, Pat Crawford, Toledo rookie, featured the game with three hits in three times at bat for the Yankees. Terry, Roush and Gibson are the only members of the squad not in camp.

CARDS GET HARD DRILL AT AVON PARK.

Avon Park, Fla., March 1.—(United News.)—The St. Louis Cardinals ran through their most strenuous workout of the season here today. Manager Southworth sending his men on four laps around the park during the drill. Southworth also announced that no game between the Cardinals and the Yankees will be held today inasmuch as the exhibition season will open Thursday for the Cardinals. Catcher Gus Mancuso wired Southworth today that he was the father of a baby girl and would not leave his home at Houston, Texas, until Monday.

PIGGRAS AND COOMBS REPORT TO YANKS.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 1.—(United News.)—George Piggras and Earl Coombs, pitcher and centerfielder, reported to the New York Yankees today that they had arrived. Piggras started to work but Coombs elected to rest until Monday when the remainder of the Yankee regulars will report for duty. Two recruits, Earl Christensen and Vernon Tucker, infielder and pitcher, also reported. Lazzeri, still bothered by his bad shoulder, worked hard today in an effort to eliminate the handicap.

VANCE IS VISITOR AT DODGER CAMP.

Clearwater, Fla., March 1.—(United News.)—Daisy Vance, pitcher and a holdout, was a visitor at the camp of the Brooklyn Dodgers here today. Vance refused to discuss his contract but said he had an appointment with Manager Wilbert Robinson at Homosassa, Fla., Saturday. Rain interrupted the morning drill of the Dodgers but they worked out in the afternoon.

Hjorthberg Will Coach Rice Institute Again

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Ernie Hjorthberg, former head coach of track at Rice institute, Houston, Texas, has been engaged to return there to serve in the same capacity for the remainder of the college year. He left tonight to take up his duties.

The veteran coach, one time mentor of the Swedish and Dutch Olympic teams, said he would return here in June to take charge of the unique school devoted exclusively to instruction in track and field coaching methods which he will inaugurate.

Mercer Bears Defeat Union In Tournament

Macon Team Plays Southwestern Louisiana in S. I. A. A. Cage Contest.

Jackson, Miss., March 1.—(AP)—

With five teams eliminated in opening matches of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association's annual basketball championship here today, Mercer and Mississippi college appeared strongest contenders for the crown among the teams meeting today and tonight. The might of three others remained untested through byes and forfeit.

The Mercer Bears, of Macon, Ga., easily beat down the attack of Union, of Jackson, Tenn., in the second game of the opening program, 70 to 33. The game followed Louisiana Normal's conquest of Louisiana Polytechnic by a score of 45 to 30.

Mercer designed its play around the perfect goal throwing of Baggy Mallard, with Peggy Campbell claiming part of the limelight.

Although falling by the wayside, Louisiana Normal extended Georgetown to its utmost before gently bowing to the Kentucky aggregation.

Roberts for Louisiana Normal monopolized the spotlight with his brilliant chunks from all parts of the floor.

Using Sargent as the big gun, Birmingham-Southern also applied a little Neipp and Black to tan the hide of the Millsaps majors in a lopsided figure. The Panthers, ranked among the tourney favorites after their defeat of the crack Mercer outfit recently, played in good form and will be in the running as contenders tomorrow night when they clash with the Bulldogs.

A fast and furious curtain downer kept the crowd on wonder street until Mississippi college piled a commanding lead which the Wesleyans dwindled in the dying moments of play.

Tech High Meets Conquerors of Cadets Today in Semi-Finals; Riverside Favored.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 1.—(Special.)—Tech High school, of Atlanta, went to the semi-finals of the Dixie basketball tournament here tonight by defeating Baylor, of Chattanooga, 30 to 19. Georgia Military Academy, Atlanta, bowed to Central High, of Chattanooga, 44 to 26, and Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga., triumphed over City High, of Chattanooga, 38 to 33, in third-round matches.

The title hopes of Baylor faded from the tournament picture this afternoon when the Red and Gray cadets were unable to get going against the fast-stepping boys from Tech High. The score was 30 to 19.

It was English, one of the most versatile cagers of the entire flock of 24 teams which sought tournament glory, who led the Atlantans to victory. This youth accounted for 15 points, in addition to covering the floor like a carpet and passing like nobody's business.

However, the Tech team was not just English, it was a complete machine with every man fitting into the cogs with the greatest of accuracy. The Techsters played as coolly as so many professionals and never got nervous even when the Cadets were pressing them for the lead.

White, a hard-fighting little guard, played the outstanding game for the Baylor aggregation, while Phillips was in the thick of every play, along with Fortune.

Georgia Military academy cagers went gallant off the tournament hardwood, spurred by the nimble purple crew of Central High school, of Chattanooga.

In one of the most impressive victories of the two days of combat, the Centralites walked away with the Georgians from the starting whistle. They led at the quarter 10 to 4, at the half 20 to 41, at the third quarter, 32 to 17.

In the last quarter the entire Central first team was withdrawn, but the new boys took to tournament play like veterans and continued to outscore the G. M. A. bunch.

Bennett and H. Hammond had their eyes peeled for the basket all night and after every twist of their hands the gentle swish of the nets indicated that it was time for the scorekeeper to get into action.

Clark was the big noise for G. M. A., looping six field goals, while Hackney was some player himself. Pundit played a nice defensive game for the losers.

City High, of Chattanooga, was eliminated from the Dixie tournament chase here tonight, but not before it had given Riverside one of the biggest scares of its life. City lost, 38 to 35.

The Maroon wave of Chattanooga led at the quarter, 9 to 7, trailed at the half, 17 to 18; dropped to 23 to 32 at the third quarters and then staged one of the greatest rallies ever seen in tournament play only to be nosed out by three points.

The locals missed enough criss to have salted the affair away, but they lost to a real team and they need no apologies.

Foster, towering center of the Riverside crew, slipped in 14 points, or enough to be the outstanding figure of the invaders. Coppedge and Woolen shared scoring honors for the Chattanoogaans, the former with 14 points, the latter with 12.

Tech High meets Central of Chattanooga at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the semi-finals, while Riverside takes on Daisy at 3. The winners will meet at 8 tomorrow night for the title. At present it looks like Riverside and Central for the finals.

Hagen, Diegel Beat Farrell And Sarazen

British Champion and Partner Stage Comeback To Win by One Up.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—

Walter Hagen, British open champion, and Leo Diegel, forged to the front in a 36-hole exhibition match today over Gene Sarazen, metropolitan champion, and Johnny Farrell, national poppy titleholder, to win one up over the Jungle Country club.

Hagen and Diegel trailed in the morning round, which was played over the Lakewood Estates Country club, being two down to their youthful opponents. Farrell led the quartet with a brilliant 68, two under par, in the morning round but the veteran again displayed his real form to turn in a 64, seven under par, in the afternoon match.

Farrell and Sarazen continued their aggressive tactics and soon had completed a four-hole lead over the Jungle course, but a brilliant rally on the part of Hagen sliced the margin and at the sixteenth the foursome was all even.

It was Hagen who again showed his heels to the pack. Slugging out a 230-yard drive down the fairway, cleverly avoiding a creek then sending his approach shot 15 feet from the pin, one of those "Hags" putts placed the victory in sight. Sarazen had a final chance to even the match on the eighteenth but failed to sink his putt for a three and the match was over. A gallery of several hundred followed the players throughout the 36-hole match.
